

Rotarians Hear Tribute to Dead

Thursday's meeting of Las Vegas Rotary Club was adjourned without a program or any of the usual Rotary activities, in respect to the memory of the late O. W. Yates, one of its best loved members. At request of President Frank Gusewelle, W. E. Ferron pronounced a tribute of respect to the deceased, declaring O. W. one of the best Las Vegas Rotarians and the members stood for a few moments with bowed heads in silent sorrow at the passing of their companion. W. E. Ferron and Cy Wengert will present their program next week.

Year-Round Indoor Comfort Ready For New, Old Homes of All Sizes

A diagram of a typical complete year-round air conditioning system. In winter, warm, humidified, filtered air is circulated through the ducts and into the rooms where it enters near the ceiling and returns, through registers near the floor, into the return ducts. In the summer, cooled, dehumidified air is filtered and circulated through the same duct system. This system provides all five air conditioning functions. It is relatively inexpensive, and economical.

NO matter what the size of the house may be, or whether it is old or newly planned, it is possible now to have automatic, year-round control of its inside "weather."

Air conditioning, already so popular in big stores, theaters, hotels and on all the principal trains of the country, now has been placed within the reach of owners of even small residences.

Engineering ingenuity has been aimed for some time at the simplification of equipment for ordinary household use and now, according to the Air Conditioning Manufacturers' Association, with headquarters in Washington, it is possible for the home-owner to install equipment that will keep winter heat, humidity and air circulation at just the proper points for human comfort and health. Later, if it is desired, the summer comfort features can be added, or the whole installation can be made at once.

Air conditioning is being installed so rapidly in structures of many kinds that it is predicted any building, including all but the smallest houses, will be considered obsolete by 1948 if it is not fully equipped for true, complete year-round air conditioning.

Rambler Writes Of Death Valley

(By Death Valley Rambler)
DEATH VALLEY JUNCTION, Mar. 21—Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rogers recently paid a visit to Acting Superintendent and Mrs. T. R. Goodwin at Park Village. While here the Rogers visited many of the points of interest in Death Valley and compared the place with Yellowstone and noted the wonderful contrasts between the two government recreation grounds. Mr. Rogers is Superintendent of Yellowstone National Park.

Miss Grace Sullenger is the new Auditor and accountant in charge at Furnace Creek Camp.

Mr. John Steine, equipment superintendent of State Highways, located at Bishop, registered at Hotel Amargosa last week, spending the night there and looked after highway business matters next day.

E. T. Albright, Bishop, was in town from the high Sierra country last week and registered at the Amargosa. Albright is an interesting conversationalist and whether he is an old-timer or not, he's sure lived among them. He was born in Bishop and has resided there since his birth—we will not say how many years. In conversation with the Rambler, he told about his father's having been in the early days a partner in business with the late Chris Zabriskie in the old-time silver camp of Candelaria. He states his mother is still living, now a resident of Berkeley. His mother went through all the lively days in Candelaria and is still living "to tell the tale." Albright continued his journey from the Junction toward the southern part of the county, just to "shake a few bushes" down in that "neck of the woods", that is if he can find any bushes (which he can't) because he's out for the office of State Senator from this district.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Green and son, Bobbie, accompanied by Mrs. Paddy Miles and Mrs. Charles Strande, formed a shopping party to Las Vegas last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cramp, of Portland, Oregon, have recently terminated a very peasant visit to the Valley where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bullinger at Hotel Amargosa. Mr. and Mrs. Cramp are the parents of Mrs. Bullinger. While here they spent a lot of time touring the valley and viewing at close range the many wonders of the district. They returned north via Tonopah and Reno.

Colonel John R. White, who is in charge of Death Valley Monument for the government, spent several days looking over things and attending to business matters recently.

Mr. Hattie Hess, of San Diego, is passing a prolonged visit with her friend Mrs. Bob Arnston at Evelyn, fourteen miles south of here, while Mr. Arnston is away with the T & T construction crew repairing the flood damaged railroad at the south end of the line near Crucero. Mrs.

Wimpy's Assumes New Attractions

"Wimpy's," the attractive, octagonal eating resort on Fremont street near Second, has taken on new attractiveness recently.

The interior of the place has been refinished in shades of blue with beautiful leather revolving stools with comfortable backs and attractive new floor coverings.

The exterior also has been made spick and span with white paint and red and yellow trimmings.

Beginning with the opening of Wimpy's, about six years ago, by Mr. and Mrs. James Sill and operated successfully by them ever since, the place has been a pleasant eating place for both 'drive-in' and counter customers. We are glad to observe the fine success made by "Jimmy and Louise" at Wimpy's.

Evans Concert Pleases Crowd

Wilbur Evans, famous baritone, assisted by Richard Tetley-Kardos at the piano, held a large audience enthralled last Friday evening at the War Memorial Auditorium.

The concert was the last and, probably the most enjoyed of the fine series of entertainments provided during the past season by the Southern Nevada Community Concert Association and the subscribers to the series feel that the small amount they invested was well repaid not only in pleasure received, but by the encouragement of fine music in the community.

The sale of season memberships for the coming season begins next week, tickets for the entire season of concerts open to members only being three dollars.

There is nothing which can do more to encourage the development of fine music in Las Vegas, especially among the young people who are just at the age when their minds are most receptive to cultural influences.

SENATOR BURT HERE

State Senator Lester L. Burt of Callente was a visitor in Vegas Thursday.

Arnston and her guest spent the day last Saturday in Death Valley Junction shopping.

Mr. and Mrs. George Sillman, hotel people of Spokane, toured the Valley last week and stopped for lunch at Hotel Amargosa. The Sillmans were rather unfortunate in running into floods the past winter. On their way south they ran into the Reno flood last December. They got straightened around finally and toured on to the southern part of the state. They later spent part of the winter in Mexico City, traveling with a caravan of National Hotel people. On their return to California they were nicely settled in Riverside when they were routed out by the recent flood and got out of the flooded district only twenty minutes ahead of a wall of flood-water which took the lives of 12 or 15 people and did untold property damage.

WISE

The wise and pleasant way to relieve a cough due to a cold is a Smith Brothers Cough Drop. (Two kinds: Black or Menthol-5¢.)

Smith Bros. Cough Drops are the only drops containing VITAMIN A. This is the vitamin that raises the resistance of the mucous membranes of the nose and throat to cold and cough infections.
