

LITTLE MOMENTS IN BIG LIVES

Kessler

TOM NOONAN, 'BISHOP OF CHINATOWN,' MADE HIS FIRST DOLLAR AND A QUARTER AT THE AGE OF TWELVE, WHEN HE AGREED TO APPEAR IN A BOXING BOUT AT THE CLERMONT RINK, IN BROOKLYN—HE LASTED PART OF THE FIRST ROUND.

Sportsmen Find Paradise Here

The Chamber of Commerce, Junior Chamber and other interested organizations that are stressing advertising of this area as a means of prosperity, have found another drawing card, which has long lain dormant. This is the Fisherman's and Hunter's paradise which Clark County and Southern Nevada is proving itself to be.

Already the fame of Boulder Lake for its 5 and 6 pound bass has gone over the entire country and sale of fishing licenses as well as boat hire tackle sale, and all else that is required for a successful fishing trip has increased tremendously in the past 3 months. The Federal Government has shown its interest by the establishment of the hatchery so as to insure a permanent supply of fish for the lake.

Migratory waterfowl and game birds are on the increase all over the county and protection is offered in the Boulder Canyon Refuge where conditions are being bettered for these species. Deer and elk are increasing, according to authentic reports, and antelope, which once ranged here naturally, are being reintroduced. Mountain Sheep are now receiving adequate protection on the Desert Game Range and wild turkey and sage grouse are being introduced into areas favorable for their propagation. All signs point toward an increased interest in the value which fish and wildlife have in this desert country. An increase of 100% in number of fishing licenses in Clark County is noted from 1936 to 1937, and in hunting licenses a 46% increase in this same period. 277 fishing and 639 hunting licenses were issued in 1937 in Clark County.

Not only is wildlife valuable to the hunters and fishermen who go out to capture these species, but also to the local grocer, hardware and clothing merchant, the photo shop, service station and any others who deal in commodities which these hunters and fishermen need. Then also there is the class of persons who will spend an entire day to get a glimpse of an elk, a sheep or an antelope and perhaps a photograph. It is difficult to conceive a business which will not benefit from the increased wildlife resources of this county.

Chamber Dinner Peasant Event

The annual dinner of Las Vegas Chamber of Commerce and celebration of the birthday of the City of Las Vegas, held at the Marine Room of the Apache hotel last Saturday evening, was both interesting and enjoyable although, because of the damaged highways, the Westways Highway meeting which had been scheduled as part of the same event had to be postponed to a later date. There were about sixty persons present.

President Robert Griffith presided as master of ceremonies and Mavor Pro-Tem H. P. Marble officially cut the City Birthday cake made and presented by Bob Baskin of the Quality Bakery, and presented the first piece to Mrs. Robert Griffith, wife of the president, one of Nevada's native daughters.

President Griffith presented several pioneers of the city, including C. P. Squires, Dr. Roy W. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Von Tobel, W. B. Mundy, Kenneth, Ira and Marion Earl, three sons of the late J. I. Eairl; Robert O. Gibson and A. S. Henderson, whom he congratulated on their long services to the community.

Others introduced as distinguished citizens included Frank McNamee, Jr., president of the Las Vegas Junior Chamber of Commerce; J. C. Manix; Guy Edwards, superintendent of the Boulder Dam recreational area and Lieut.-Gov. Fred S. Alward.

A. E. Cahlan, editor of Las Vegas Review-Journal recounted some of the history of Las Vegas and urged cooperation of all in the work of increasing tourist traffic to this area. He stressed the need for a well planned publicity program.

City Engineer C. D. Baker called to mind the long fight for building of improved highways in this section of the state. Marion Earl discussed Nevada's favorable tax structure, calling attention to the fact that Nevada is the only state without any of the so-called "nuisance taxes."

Capt. Joyce, pioneer in the work of establishing "Dude" ranches in Arizona, especially about Tucson, was the principal speaker of the evening and proved most interesting. He opened his talk by declaring that Las Vegas is the center of the finest recreational area in the United States.

He urged Las Vegas to reflect the spirit of the old west in all ways as the best means of drawing tourist travel. He stated that eastern tourists are looking for western atmosphere and are disappointed if they do not find it.

Capt. Joyce asserted that Las Vegas has the opportunity to capitalize on the tourist travel to this area and establish here one of the greatest tourist centers in America.

"Someone will cash in on the opportunity for fine resort hotels in this area and for the establishment of a string of "dude ranches" for the entertainment of visitors. You must attract capital here for such purposes by a well financed publicity campaign."

In the course of his address Capt. Joyce paid high compliment to a Las Vegas citizen, J. K. Houssels, for having staged the most successful race meet last year ever held in Arizona.
