

Indian Hurt In Auto Accident

DEATH VALLEY JUNCTION, July 11 — Sunday morning, July 3rd, at about 3:00 o'clock, while Joe Bishop, riding in his own model "A" Ford, being driven by his brother-in-law, Bill Jones, both Paiute Indians, was seriously injured, when the car ran off the road, and overturned. The accident occurred at a point 12 or 13 miles east of Death Valley Junction, as the boys were returning from the Pabrumbo ranch, to their home, in Ash Meadows, Nevada.

Bishop's left ear was torn almost off: he sustained several scalp wounds, about the face and neck, and a compound fracture of the right, lower jaw. Jones, who was less seriously hurt, struck out through the darkness for help, and in the meantime, Bishop revived sufficiently to start out walking toward home, early Sunday morning and was picked up, lying along the roadside, by Paddy Miles, who, with family and friends had started for the Charleston Mountains, but who turned about and brought the injured man to the Emergency Hospital.

It required several hours and more than 20 stitches for Dr. Shrum and staff to close up all of the wounds and replace Bishop's ear. He was then conveyed to the Scharz Indian Reservation Hospital, near Reno, where he was placed for a long siege of recuperation.

Harmon To Hear Power Petition

Harley A. Harmon, chairman of the Nevada Public Service Commission, announces that he will hold a hearing on the petition for formation of a power district for Goodsprings and vicinity at a date after August first to be fixed later.

The petition recently filed by the Goodsprings people is for the formation of a district under the provisions of the act of the legislature passed in 1935, so that a power transmission line from Boulder Dam may be constructed and operated to supply electrical energy to that entire area.

At the hearing representatives of the proposed district will be present to show the public necessity for the formation of the district and to outline the plans for electrical service.

Following formation of the district application will be made to the Colorado River Commission for a contract for use of a portion of the Nevada allocation of Boulder Dam power.

It is claimed by proponents of the district that large tonnages of low grade lead-zinc ores, of which there are millions of tons in the Goodsprings district which cannot now be worked because of the high cost of power, will become valuable when Boulder Dam power at cost of generation plus the cost of transmission is available. Those interested in the proposed district and transmission line are looking forward to great activity in the district, following consummation of their plans.

Farm Women In Camp At Tahoe

Nevada's first camp held under the auspices of the Nevada Extension Service and Nevada State Farm Bureau solely for farm women was held at Lake Tahoe this week when twenty-five women from five counties assembled at "Skyland" for four days of vacation from farm-home duties.

Washoe, Douglas, Lyon, Churchill, and distant Clark County were represented when the roster was taken as the camp opened Sunday. Many other members of their families accompanied the farm women to the camp and spent the first day with them there.

While "just resting" is one of the chief purposes of the camp, the women found plenty to keep them busy. Hiking, singing, swimming, group games, camp fire assemblies, and other camp diversions took up the time of many, while those who wished formed handicraft groups for making of articles in copper, paper, and textiles.

Talks during the camp were made by M. W. David of Reno on the folk lore of the Tahoe region, by Dr. George McGee of Yerrington who is camp physician on first aid, and Mrs. R. B. Addenbrooke of Reno on her recent trip to Sumatra.

One of the features of the camp, according to Miss Gertrude Hayes of Reno, Washoe County Agricultural Extension agent, who was in charge of arrangements for the camp, were the meals. With a camp cook, the farm women were relieved of all duties at mealtime.

A tour around the lake to view Emerald Bay on Monday was one of the features of the outing.

Mrs. Elsie Rountree, Smith Valley farm woman made history for herself when she attended the camp, for she also was present at the first Nevada 4-H Club camp fifteen years ago, being a pioneer in both of Nevada's agricultural camps.

Mrs. Florence Bovett, state secretary of the Farm Bureau who was present stated the camp was a big success and those attending were already talking about next year's camp with a larger number of counties participating.

Stylists Will Design Comfort

LOS ANGELES, July 15 — Clothing of the future will be designed for comfort, according to stylists, preparing for "Combined Market Week," July 18 to 23 in Los Angeles.

Brilliant colors, increased freedom of motion and zippers to facilitate speedy dressing will be noticeable in trends for the coming months.

Scores of designers today were making ready their fall garments, with a view to showing them before an expected throng of 10,000 wholesale buyers from all states and many foreign countries.

New Los Angeles styles, all of them definitely "Californian," according to Dan B. Miner, general chairman of the event, are expected to establish vogues wherever shown. Lines participating in "Market Week" will be the emphasis laid on the trade-mark, "Made in Los Angeles." Hollywood merchandise, it was declared, is a ready seller wherever displayed.

Extolls Climate Of Death Valley

(By The Rambler)

While Death Valley and environs is considered one of the hottest and driest spots to be found anywhere, this summer, with the exception of a few days, has been cool and pleasant. In fact, this has been the coolest spring and summer within the memory of the oldest-timers. At the Junction, the temperature has been such that a blanket was needed for comfort, most of the nights, while the days have been mostly, cool and pleasant. And while there is a lot of bright sunshine practically every day, yet there have been more partly cloudy days than average, and the humidity has perhaps been higher — apparently more vapor in the atmosphere. Messrs. W. W. Cahill and Frank Tilton, both of whom have been closely connected with conditions in Death Valley for many years, state this has been the coolest, pleasantest summer in their memory. And while there have been some clouds floating over the Valley, many days, yet there has been practically no rainfall, since the heavy downpours, during the flood season, early in March; hence, it is a usual, dry and dusty, out here.
