

Press Building For Exposition

SAN FRANCISCO — Newspapermen from all the world will be entertained in their own building on Treasure Island in 1939. This became certain when plans were completed for a palatial $50,000 Press Building at the Golden Gate International Exposition.

The building will include a restaurant and lounging rooms which will be social headquarters for newspaper, magazine and radio and their friends during the 228 day run of the World's Fair. It will be a one-story structure in modern style conforming with the general architectural plan of the Exposition.

The "working press" will be housed in specially equipped press rooms in the Exposition's Administration Building.

Deaths By Auto In Nevada Less

CARSON CITY, Aug 4 — Nevada reduced its automobile deaths by seventeen percent at the close of July, 1938, according to B. C. Hartung, director of the State Highway Safety Division. Last year there were 35 fatalities at the end of July while this year chalked up 29, or a decrease of 6.

Of the 29 deaths occurring, 16 involved out-of-state cars, and 12 of the number killed were pedestrians. During the first seven months of the year motorcycles and bicycles have proved a menace, claiming three victims. One death was caused by drowning and another by severe burns. The twelve remaining fatalities were the result of collisions, driving off the roadway and the like.

Nevada's reduction will be given recognition by the National Safety Council, and it is entirely possible that this state will again be among the leaders in Safety advancement. This reduction compares favorably with the national figures, released at the end of June, 1938, which disclose about 16 or 17 percent decrease throughout the nation.

Hartung attributes most of Nevada's splendid safety record to the development of safety consciousness by residents of the state during the past two years.

A vigorous program of safety education in the schools will be undertaken at the start of the fall semester, and will be supplemented by adult training in the various communities with local safety committees supervising the work.

THE AGF FOR JOB WORK

Pioneer Mine Operator Dies

Death came Thursday morning for Jack Smith, one of southern Nevada's outstanding mine operators, who has for more than four years been making a heroic fight against the insidious effect of "the dust" which lodged in his lungs as the result of many years of underground work in the mining camps of Nevada.

Everything that modern science could devise was done for the stricken man, and, after spending many months in a Los Angeles hospital, Jack came back to his family to Goodsprings to pass his last days with his devoted wife and family.

The body was brought to Palm Funeral Home in this city where services will be held at eight o'clock Saturday evening, August 6, after which the remains will be taken to Los Angeles for cremation.

The surviving relatives in addition to his widow, Helen Smith of Goodsprings, include his mother, Elizabeth Smith of Reno; three brothers, Gene Smith of Reno and Charles and Jay Smith of Goodsprings; and four sisters, Mrs. Roy Schultz and Mrs. Fred Starback of Mill Valley and Mrs. Elmer Berg and Miss Elizabeth Smith of Reno.

The deceased was a native of Nevada having been born at Panaca, fifty years ago. He had a part in the development of mines in the great camps of the state including Delamar, Goldfield and Tonopah, having been superintendent of the California mine at the latter place.

His greatest success came in the development of the famous Chiquita Mine at Goodsprings, of which he was president at the time of his death.

More than six years ago, in company with six other mining men of Goodsprings, Jack undertook the exploration and development of the Chiquita mine which, for a quarter of a century had lain dormant. His genius for recognizing, locating and following ore led to the opening of the Chiquita and his acquaintanceship with mining financiers brought the funds necessary to open and equip the mine and bring it to the present state of productiveness. Since the illness began, more than four years ago the work of development was taken over by Jack's brother, Jay.

Jack Smith had a fine personality and a reputation for strict integrity which gained the confidence of all with whom he came in contact. He has long been a leader in the life of the Goodsprings district and his passing creates a void which will not soon be filled.

The Age extends the sympathy of the people of Clark county in the untimely death of one of its leading citizens.

A Complete Home at Low Cost

The house shown above is situated in Atlanta, Ga. It was valued by the FHA at $5,750 and financed by a $4,600 insured mortgage.

The dwelling is a noteworthy example of sound design and dignity. It contains two ground-floor bedrooms, as well as living room, dining room, kitchen, bath, and porch. The upper story, with two dormer windows, can be developed into additional living quarters at comparatively little cost whenever the occasion demands additional space.
