Nevada Wolfpack Starts Its Season

UNIVERSITY OF NEVADA, Reno—The University of Nevada Wolfpack went into its final sessions of work this week in preparation for the coming season. Nevada opens in Reno against the College of Idaho, September 24, and the following weekend will go to Las Vegas, Nevada, where that city will be host to Arizona State and the Pack. This will be the first time two college football teams have met in that section.

The University of Nevada squad, under the guidance of head coach Doug Dashiell and his assistants, Duane Keller, Che Scranton and Pat Eaton, has come along to a fine point, and for a team that won only two games last season, greater spirit has been manifest than in years of Wolf Pack history, according to "those in the know."

The Wolves' schedule, which on the surface appears not too tough, is no set-up. Arizona State always has a big strong team; Colorado State at Greeley is good enough to rate in the top bracket of the Rocky Mountain conference, and were co-champions only a couple of years back, sharing the honor with the University of Colorado, home of "Whizzer" White. Of the Far Western conference opponents, only Chico was not too tough for the Pack last year. In addition there are two known strong clubs from the coast to beat, San Francisco State and San Diego State. It might be added that Coach Dashiell is not taking the Idaho gang lightly, judging from the workouts he has put the Pack through.

Two old men, will make up the veterans of the squad. Harry "Pop" Bradley, who is the last four-letter man in the conference, will be in one of the tackle spots. Neal "Pee Wee" Campbell, the other vet will work at both right and left ends.

Besides these two, there are ten letter men with one year of varsity experience. The thirty-four other good prospects have experience ranging from junior college to freshman.

While this seems to be a purely green squad, Dashiell can put a well-balanced team on the field. The strating line-up cannot be predicted so early, but at ends may be Galloway, Sala, Campbell, Clayton, Carpenter, Trigerro, or Willard, all lettermen but the last two. At the tackle posts Bradley Spitz, Kievitt, Bryant, Collier and Glomi have been showing up well. The guard positions, with Robinette and Brooks, when Tapia is at center; and with Lee Barsanti, Dickson, McDonald, and Chessher to work in, will be well taken care of.

Scott Murder Trial Concluded

The trial of Edward Scott for the alleged shooting of Larry Saunders, last June has occupied the attention of the court the past week. Scott, who is a world war veteran, was charged with first degree murder. The trouble arose over an argument over the world war. Saunders was asked to leave. When he refused to go Scott left and went to live with P. Body in the living quarters of his store in North Las Vegas. Saunders later went to the store and revived the argument which ended in a scuffle and the firing of the shot which killed Saunders.

Roland Wiley and C. A. Jones appeared for the defendant while District Attorney Roger Foley and A. S. Henderson are prosecuting the case. The jury was completed Monday afternoon and is made up of the following men:

R. D. Bingham, Luther Hafen, Delbert Waite, Ralph J. Simon, J. E. Baggett, Archie W. Smoke, Robert T. Moore, Durrell Adams, R. M. Johnson, Harry S. Frehner, F. C. Letchworth, and Vernon Pollock.

The case went to the jury Wednesday evening and a verdict of second degree murder was returned at 3:15 Thursday afternoon.

Judge Wm. E. Orr will render judgment at 9:30 Monday morning.

At center, Tapia is doing a nice job along with Demosthenes and Griswold. Both Brooks and Robinette are available for the pivot spot.

The backs are considerde more of a problem. Although lacking experience, observers generally concede that Gobeaga and Polish will stack up well on any field. Vinson and Stewart are handling the full-back post with Dick Taylor. Two new-comers who are bidding for a berth behind the line are Kirkendall and Roberts, with Dishell's need for speed met with Chuck Whitham, Walt Powers, "the Sparks flyer," and other fast men including Peccole and Rhoades. If a combination can't be built from that crew, there still remains Baraw, Linson, Paille, Bolso, and Herrick who can win backfield spots.

Vegas Legionite In Accident

M. E. Leavitt, past commander of Las Vegas post of the American Legion, who left here Sunday for the convention was painfully injured when the automobile in which he was riding collided with a car from North Dakota. The accident occurred near Pomona and Leavitt was taken to the Pomona Valley hospital. Leavitt was accompanied by his wife and three sons and was making the trip with Shirley Scott. Mrs. Leavitt was scratched about the face but otherwise she and the rest of the party were unhurt. It was thot that Leavitt would be able to join his family at the convention.

STREET PROJECT PLAN

REJECTED BY P. W. A.

Mayor Marble has received word that the plan to oil gravel all streets not already paved in the built up area of the city had been rejected without explanation by the public works administration in Washington.

It is to be regretted that the contemplated project has to be shelved as it and the project for the extension of the sewer would have proved work for 125 men for the next five months.

The paving project had already been OK'd by the San Francisco office and had been sent on to Washington headquarters for final approval.
