

of the county.

There is much that can be done to aid the city and county commissioners in the performance of their duties (which they don't get paid the week's salary of a laborer for, per month) — so why not cut out the politics and get down to CONSTRUCTIVE conversation.

A REAL TREAT

Monday evening we were fortunate to be able to listen to one of the world's greatest commentators on national and world events. I would pay a five dollar bill any day to hear Professor Adamantios Polyzoides of the University of Southern California speak on world events.

The Greek order of Ahepa can well be proud of this great educator.

UNIVERSITY NEEDS WINGFIELD

In another column of this issue we publish a letter from Betty Idna, student of the College of Arts and Science, Class of 1939, which expresses the general view of students, faculty and all persons familiar with the operation of the University of Nevada. The letter is worthy of thoughtful consideration.

One paragraph of the letter in particular gives facts which many Nevada voters do not know.

"Mr. Wingfield has been one of the best and most hard-working members of the Board. He has made many important connections with influential people who have made donations to the school which we could not have obtained otherwise. Not only has Mr. Wingfield given his time, but also a large sum of money out of his own pocket when the University was in need of aid. A number of students are now going through the University on money given by Mr. Wingfield. Some of these students do not even know who their benefactor is. This has been true for a good many years."

Under such conditions it would be folly for the voters to fail to put the stamp of approval after the name "George Wingfield" next Tuesday.

TICKET APPEALS TO CLARK COUNTY

The Republican State Ticket headed by Tasker L. Oddie for U. S. Senator, Harry Stewart for Congressman, John A. Fulton for Governor and Frank McNamee for Lieutenant Governor and Harry Stewart for Congressman, has a strong appeal for the voters of Clark County.

Of course Frank McNamee, Las Vegas attorney, native son of Nevada and one of the active leaders of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, should receive the strong and almost unanimous support of the county as a matter of local pride. Frank is the only Clark county representative on the Republican ticket and as such is entitled to the loyalty of his thousands of local friends.

Tasker L. Oddie, working loyally to advance the interests of Clark County during his many years of public life, has amply earned our loyalty and our gratitude. His many acts of friendship from the day when he as Governor, helped us make the Las Vegas City Charter a law cannot be forgotten. His twelve years of effective efforts in the United States Senate in helping to shape and pass the Boulder Dam legislation; his great work in securing funds which made our fine highways possible; his action in securing for us our splendid $300,000 federal building and his prompt response to our every request, have endeared him to the people of Clark county.

Harry Stewart, for Congress, is another outstanding figure who the people of Las Vegas and Clark county, because of his high character and far-seeing vision, should delight to honor.

John A. Fulton, for Governor, is another of the men, not a politician, who has been persuaded to become a candidate for governor from a sense of duty. He, as head of the Mackey school of mines, has been of great service to the mines, miners and prospectors of Clark county through his unselfish services in testing ore samples and helping in the development of properties. As an engineer he has given valuable aid in the organization of state power districts and in solving some of the perplexing questions connected with Boulder Dam power.

These men head a list of splendid, unselfish citizens who compose the Republican state ticket, all of whom are worthy of our confidence.

Present indications are that all will receive the support of a larger portion of Clark county voters than was thought possible a few weeks ago.
