of Los Angeles, payed a visit to Death Valley and the Junction last week, spending several days here. Mr. Scholl, who was formerly manager of the Borax Co store at the Junction, now represents the company in the purchasing department, in Los Angeles. Mrs. Scholl was formerly teacher of the grade school at Death Valley Junction. They returned to Los Angeles on Sunday.

"Andy" and Mrs. Helen Mauer, chef and head waitress, respectively, at the Amargosa hotel for a number of years past—who have served only during the busy, winter season, arrived here early last week, and Mr. Mauer is now at his post at the hotel. However, Mrs. Mauer is not to be here this year, and will take the year off. Mrs. Mauer returned to their ranch, near Ocean-side, later in the week.

Mr. W. W. Cahill has spent a part of the past week confined to his bed, as the result of an acciden-

-al fall, sustained last Sunday. In emerging from his bath, he stepped on a piece of soap, slipped and fell, striking his side against the rim of the bath-tub.

Mrs Ella Toles and brother, Woodrow, returned to the Junction, from Ely, Nevada, last week. Both have employment here, and wisely migrated to the warmer climate for the winter. Their father, Mr. Ernest Toles, remained, temporarily in Ely.

Death Valley Post, No. 542, American Legion, held the first dance of the season in Corkhill Hall, last Saturday night. There was a large attendance, and a good time enjoyed by all.

Dennis Bauch of the State Highway Engineering department, now engaged in 'staking the stretch of 11 miles of new roadway being constructed between Death Valley Junction and the Monument line, along Furnace Creek Wash, spent the week-end in Los Angeles.

Several from the Junction attended the republican rally, "speaking," and dance, at Beatty last Tuesday evening. Former U. S. Senator, Tasker L. Oddie, now seeking the same office against the incumbent, Pat McCarran, headed a list of candidates for office in the state of Nevada. All reported a splendid meeting. Several reported more democrats present than republicans, but the latter replied that was exactly as desired. Not trying to convert republicans.

Smith Received With High Favor

Lloyd V. Smith, distinguished Reno attorney, is making a whirlwind campaign for election as Attorney General of Nevada, and everywhere is being received with high favor.

Smith has long been popular with the people of Reno where he is best known and now in making his statewide campaign is drawing to himself the support of thousands who believe that a young man with modern outlook upon the problems of the day should occupy the attorney general's office.

There is no question as to his high qualities as an attorney and those who are best acquainted with the situation predict his election next Tuesday.

Chamber Debates

Bob Kaltenborn, speaking of the coming race meet, declared that already there were 32 horses and their trainers at the race track, and more expected immediately. He declared that there would be approximately 200 of the best horses in the west in the race track stables ready to participate in the four-day race meet November 26-27 and December 3-4. He stated that various service clubs and individuals were sponsoring various races and that financial arrangements were very promising.

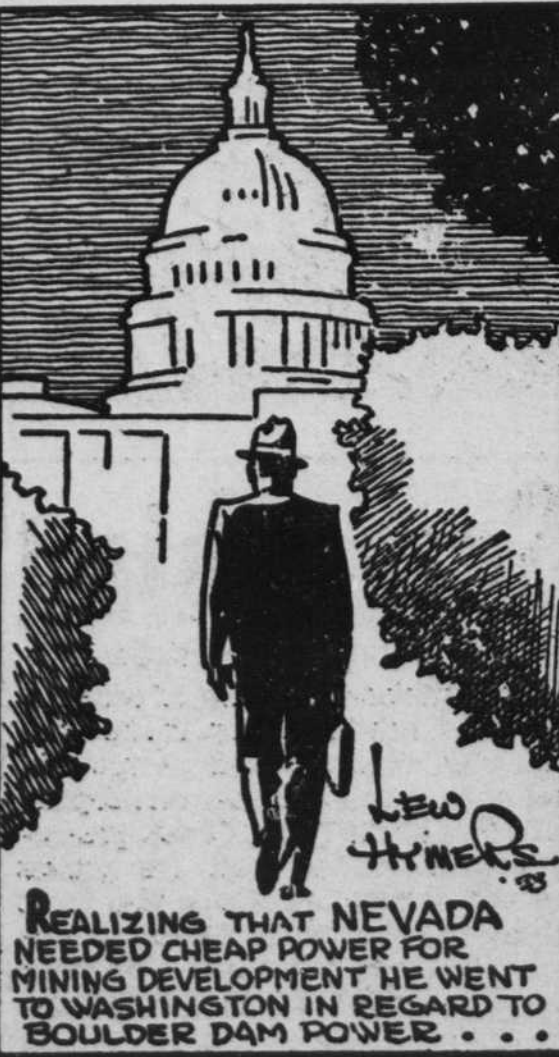

Mr. Kaltenborn stated that, among other things of interest, he was hopeful of securing a band of Indians with their tepees and ponies to take up their residences on the race track grounds and put on a series of old-fashioned Indian pony races each day of the meet. This feature would be unusual and would attract many people the speaker declared.

"Bob" Russell reported on the visit of Bob Kaltenborn, Leslie Saunders and himself to the Mining Congress in Los Angeles last week when they invited the body to hold its next convention in Las Vegas. The three men in wild-west costumes attracted much attention and achieved considerable publicity for Las Vegas.

mands for recognition, the time has come for readjustments. There are two ways these can be brought about. One is through another world war. That, obviously, would leave us worse off than before. The other is to accept the situation as it is, organize a world conference to revise boundaries and solve economic problems.

"The latter course would give all nations a breathing spell for many decades and I believe all are ready to accept such a plan," said the speaker.

Referring to the possibility of another world war, Prof. Polyziodes declared that the United States would have a big advantage, saying:

"We have nine percent of the world's territory, but ninety percent of its wealth. We have command of the seas, industry and commerce. We would win out.

"There are few things we lack. We need faith in ourselves. We need to resolve that Democracy will make good because Democracies have built the world in which we live today. It is not for the liberal principles of democracy we would not have the equality of opportunity so necessary to the progress we have made."

state, yet Delaware has 100 times more foreign corporations than Nevada," Yeakey stated. "Delaware's laws are more severe than Nevada's, but they have reached out to get this business and revenue.

"Outside corporations could be brought in through publicity and the cooperation of Bar Associations and chambers of commerce.

"Nevada needs a businessman for secretary of state, and as secretary, I would do all I could to foster increased revenue through the channels I have mentioned," Yeakey said.
