

Sister Ship of Lindbergh Plane Is Flown Again

One of the most difficult tasks facing the Paramount property men working on "Men With Wings" was to find a duplicate of the famous "Spirit of St. Louis," in which Charles A. Lindbergh made his non-stop flight from New York to Paris in 1927.

Officials of Washington's Smithsonian museum, where Lindbergh's plane has been reposing these last 10 years, were unwilling to risk lending it to a film crew, and so William A. Wellman, producer and director of the technicolor aviation epic, coming to the El Portal theatre, started a nation-wide search to find a "sister ship" of the "Spirit."

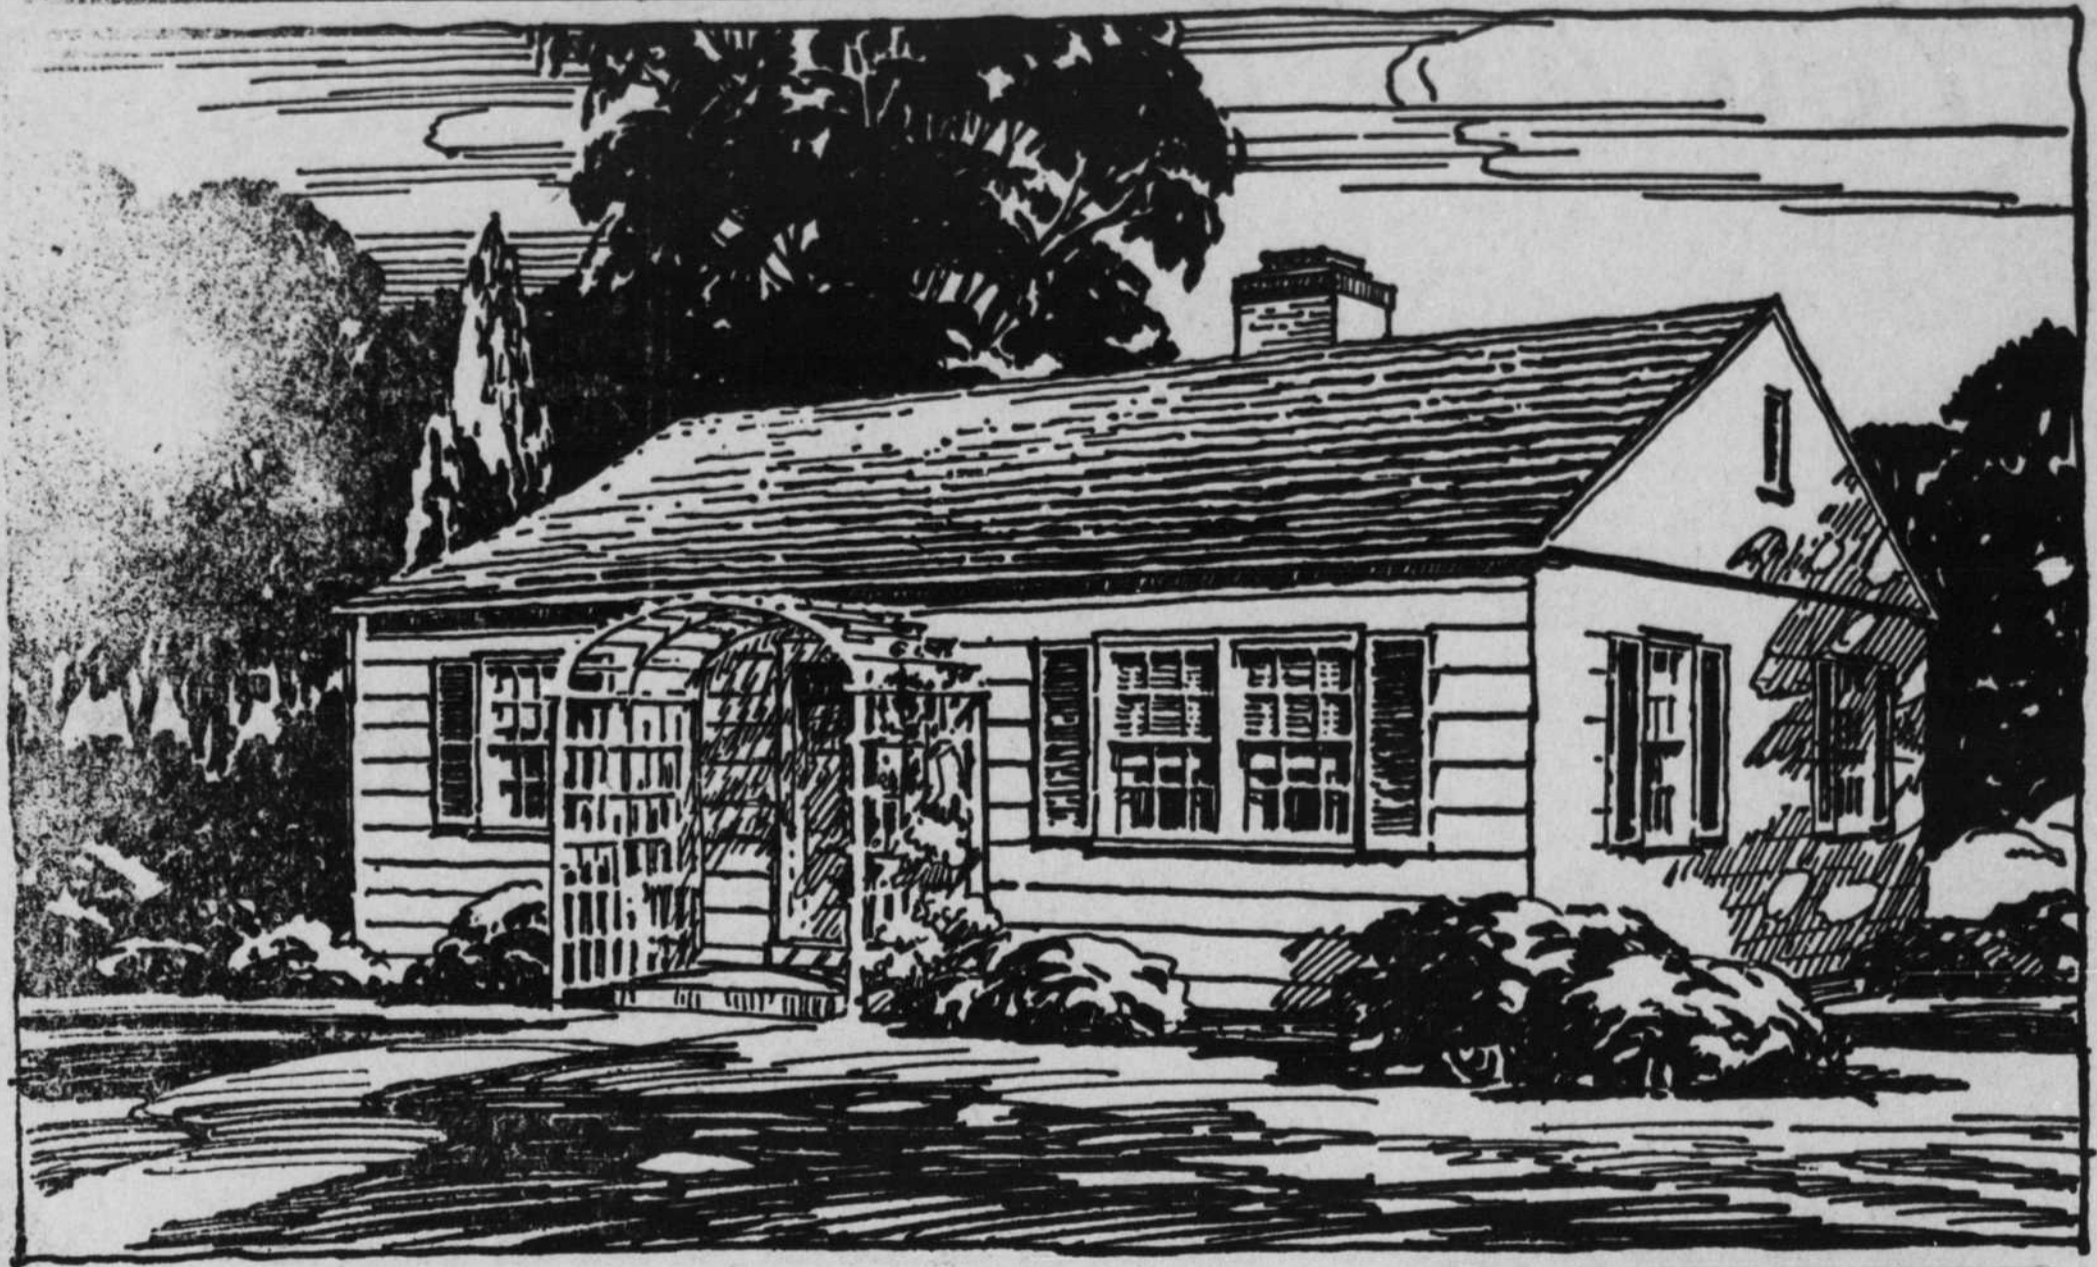

After combing the country, studio research men found just the plane they wanted in an old hangar at Glendale, Calif. An authentic Ryan

Compact and Inexpensive

The house shown above was built by a resident of New Rochelle, N. Y., with the aid of a $4,000 mortgage insured by the Federal Housing Administration. The loan was made for a term of 19 years and 6 months. Monthly payments are $26.80.

Access to the bathroom from the two good-sized bedrooms and living room is readily provided in the arrangement.

J-5, it was then marked with Lindy's famous symbol, "NX 211," and piloted through the air by one of California's leading aces, Paul Mantz, technical adviser to the late Amelia Earhart.

The sequence in "Men With Wings," in which the "Spirit of St. Louis" appears, reconstructs the star of the race from New York to Paris for the Orteig prize of $25,000. Fred MacMurray, the ace in the picture, enters the race.

GEORGIA ANECDOTE

Among those not entirely satisfied with the results of the Georgia primary is the man whose platform was recorded in a Post-Dispatch article published prior to the primary. This Georgian said he was for Eugene Talmadge (who was defeated), Governor Rivers (who was renominated), and President Roosevelt. He explained: "Gene Talmadge will give me 40 acres of land; Ed Rivers will exempt it from taxes, and the President will pay me not to farm it. That's my ticket." — St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

LIBRARY REOPENED

Huntington Library and Art Gallery, San Marino, reopened November 1, following the month of annual closing, according to a report received by the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California. Visiting hours at the library and art gallery are from 1:15 to 4:30 o'clock every afternoon but Monday. Cards of admission may be reserved by telephone or by mail.

Check Is Needed On Light - Power System In Home

Careful check should be made of the light and power equipment in a new home or in modernizing an existing house.

In the case of old dwellings, such a check is doubly recommended. The original installations may have become worn or damaged. The services of a competent electrician should be employed to avoid mistakes which might prove costly and hazardous.

A wiring system, if permitted to remain neglected, may prove to be a dangerous fire hazard. Nonmetallic sheathed cable, armored cable, rigid metal pipe, or knob and tube may be used in rewiring.

A variety of types of switches may be employed. Standard toggle switches may be used for ordinary locations. Mercury switches may be used but are generally employed only where silent action is required. All switches in exposed locations should be waterproofed.

Improvements involving lighting equipment, if a permanent part of the residential structure, may be financed with the proceeds of loans obtained from financial institutions qualified under the Federal Housing Administration's property improvement credit plan.

"Whenever federal agencies are created to assume regulatory functions they tend to take over more and more of the activities of the states." — Lester V. Plum, instructor in economics, Princeton university.

The financial experts disagree on how big a debt burden the country can stand before there is a collapse. But they generally agree that no matter what the size may be, we are going to get it.
