OBSERVATIONS

VEGAS TREE PLANTING

The claim is made that the tree-planting movement in Las Vegas originated with a former editor of the Review-Journal 25 years ago. As a matter of fact the movement was promoted long before that esteemed journal was established and culminated in an Arbor Day movement in which the women of the town through the Mesquite club were the leading spirits.

Several of the women who were active in the movement are still with us, among them being Mesdames Emily Ball, D. S. Farnsworth, W. B. Mundy, Henrietta Brockman, Theresa McGovern, W. N. Schuyler, Will Beckley, C. C. Boyer and C. P. Squires. These women not only sponsored the movement, but during the hot summer following dragged lengths of garden hose about the streets to water the trees.

In the Age of February 17, 1912 (23 years ago) the writer of this column said:
"Vegas helped herself to a bunch of real Valentines on Wednesday last (Feb. 14), the date chosen for Arbor Day. With the money secured on Tag Day, promoted by the ladies of the Mesquite club, many hundreds of trees were purchased and planted in addition to this, many residents had their own private tree-planting. It is estimated that 2,000 trees were planted by this Arbor Day movement started by the women's club and even if, as some of the chronic grouchers snarl, "half of 'em will die," Vegas still may look backward to Feb. 14, 1912, as the greatest day in her history—the day which created for her bowers of greenery to give rest to the eye and pleasure to the tired mind and body during the hot summer days."

"Many complimentary expressions accompanied by substantial checks were received. Honor trees were planted on the school grounds and named for Governor Oddie, Senators Newlands and Nixon and other prominent people. The Land and Water Company, through their agent, W. R. Bracken, planted 500 umbrella trees about the company cottages. On the court house square trees were planted by each county official to be named after them. A pleasing feature of the day was the ceremony of the planting of the "Taber Tree" by Judge Taber on the court house lawn."

However, the tree-planting movement started long before 1912. For example, The Age of February 25, 1910, said:
"Four years ago there were no trees, no green lawns, no flowers and no sheltering vines in Las Vegas. Most people told you they wouldn't grow. But the few foolish enthusiasts went ahead and planted and today there are some veritable bowers of beauty in Las Vegas."

So almost from the start of the city 35 years ago, there were a few who held to the faith that trees really would grow here. But there is one incident, seemingly small in itself, which had more to do with promoting tree-planting on the new and that was purely accidental.

Mrs. George Goodwin, who built the Palace hotel on the site now occupied by El Patio hotel, needed supports for her clothes line, so she hired a man to go down to Vegas creek and cut some posts. He cut two or three small cottonwood trees into posts and set them in the ground back of the Palace. This was in May, 1905.

A month or two later, walking along the street, this writer happened to glance toward the Palace and was astonished to notice a little plume of green in the back yard. Immediate investigation of the astonishing sight disclosed the fact that the cottonwood post had sent out little branches of greenery in spite of the blistering sun. Which proved, of course, that cottonwood posts would grow into trees. One of those trees is still growing in the yard of El Patio.

When sufficient signatures to meet the requirements have been affixed to the petitions, they will be presented to the board of county commissioners for action.

While Clark county has been fortunate in having private hospitals and clinics of high standards, there are many people who are unable to afford the cost of private hospitalization and who favor the establishment of a county General Hospital such as are operated by a number of other counties in the state.

Four-States Meet Here Best Ever

Robert Hays, national secretary of International Four-States Highway Association, writing from El Centro, Cal., declares that the convention in Las Vegas last week-end brought "the largest attendance and the greatest interest ever manifested at any of our conventions."

Other highlights from that convention were:
Notification from Robert A. Allen, Nevada State Highway Engineer, that the Searchlight sector would be completed in 1940, thus completing the entire 589 miles of the International Four States Highway located in the State of Nevada.

Announcement by Assistant Regional Forester A. L. Anderson of Ogden that during the current year $90,000 will be spent on the road south of Galena Summit, toward Sun Valley, and $135,000 on the stretch extending north of the Summit, toward the town of Stanley.

A pledge by the California delegation that every effort would be made to have the Niland to Blythe sector of road, in southern California, placed in the State Highway System by the California legislature in 1941 for hard surfacing and maintenance.

A pledge by the Mexican delegation to exert every effort to complete the Mexican extension, from Mexicali to San Felipe on the Gulf of California.

It was voted to hold an autumn convention in September of this year at Salmon City, Idaho, and that the 1941 convention be held in Mexicali, Baja California, Mexico, in February, 1941.

Harland E. Wells, of Whitefish, Montana, was elected president for the sixth consecutive term, as were most of the other officers who have so loyally and ably supported him and his work. Following is the executive staff:

Harland E. Wells, Whitefish, Montana, president; Juneau H. Shinn, Boise, Idaho, first vice president; Col. Ed Fletcher, San Diego, California, second vice president; James Cashman, Las Vegas, Nevada, treasurer; Robert Hays, El Centro, California, national secretary; C. D. Baker, Las Vegas, R. S. Tofflemire, Twin Falls, Ida., F. T. Cook, West-morland, Calif., and Walter McLeod, Missoula, Mont., assistants to the president.

J. J. Lopez, Mexicali, national director for Mexico; Steve A. Ragsdale, Desert Center, Calif., traveling director; L. A. Campbell, Missoula, Mont., director Montana information; A. D. Kelley, Challis, Ida., director Challis-Clayton sector; Frank A. Gilman, Needles, Calif., director of publicity; Jas. W. Paulds, Missoula, Mont., Montana publicity director; Philip J. Dolan, Caliente, Nev., southern Nevada publicity director.

Randall Henderson, El Centro, Calif., director of desert travel and research; A. C. Fulmer, Riverside, Calif., director of surveys Niland-Blythe sector; Stuart C. Hawley, Texaco Nat. Road Reports, New York City, director of travel and route information; B. M. Graham, Brawley, Calif., director of construction, Niland-Blythe sector; O.V. Blackburn, Los Angeles, cartographer.

Hal T. Cheney, Missoula, Mont., secretary for Montana; Clark L. Heiss, Jerome, Ida., secretary for Idaho; George Doyle, Ely, Nev., secretary for Nevada; Thomas S. Dempsey, Whitefish, Mont., Roy L. Shoup, Salmon, Ida., Oliver Goerman, Las Vegas, George Krueger, Brawley, Calif., C. H. Detweiler, Twin Falls, Ida., Roger Grattan, Kalspell, Mont., Pablo Landeros, Loreto, Mexicali, and Chas. E. Nice, Brawley, Calif., assistant secretaries. Roy L. Shoup, Salmon, Ida., secretary 1940 fall convention; Alberto F. Moreno, Mexicali, secretary 1941 convention.

Members of the board of directors from Clark county include the following:

James E. Killeen, Moapa; Guy E. Doty, Glendale; R. B. Griffith, Charleston Park; O. A. Kimball, Las Vegas; R. J. Kaitenborn Las Vegas Chamber of Commerce; A. E. Cahlan, Clark county; A. C. Grant, Clark county (honorary); M.S. Coffey, south Clark county; J. C. Manly, Boulder City; Peter A. Keegel, Nelson; A. S. Gaines, Searchlight.

METHODISTS ENJOY COLORED FILMS

The regular midweek pot luck dinner at the Methodist church was an unusually pleasant affair. After the social hour Rev. Ford Gilbert showed several reels of colored films picturing his wanderings during his summer vacation.

JACK PRICE CONVALESCING

Word has been received that Jack Price, clothier, who has been confined in the Santa Ana Valley hospital, has been removed to his home in Orange and is somewhat improved.

Mint Building Funds Wanted by Museum Board

Judge Clark J. Guild, chairman of the State Museum and Art Institute Board, is asking for public contributions for the purpose of making needed improvements and placing a new roof on the old, historic Mint Building at Carson City.

The 1939 legislature appropriated $5,000 for the purpose of securing the building from the government and the entire sum was required to purchase the property. It has been the wish of Nevadans for many years to preserve the splendid stone structure because of its historic interest, and now the committee plans to convert it into a State Museum and Art Institute.

It is a project to which all Nevadans should contribute something, and the appeal of Judge Guild and his committee for donations should not go unheeded.

Death Comes To William L. Scott

William L. Scott, for more than 25 years prominent in the political life of Las Vegas, died suddenly Friday morning at the county hospital, where he was taken by Dr. Slavin following a heart attack.

Funeral services will be held at the Elks Home, Sunday afternoon at two o'clock, the Elks lodge of which he was Past-Exalted Ruler, officiating at the ceremonies and his former law partner, Judge Roger Foley, delivering the eulogy. The American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Bar Association, Masonic Lodge, Footprinters Association, Elks Lodge, Brotherhood of L. F. & E. and other organizations with which he had been associated providing the pallbearers.

The remains will be escorted by a group of ex-service men to Wood-lawn cemetery where military honors will be given. The remains are in charge of the Garrison Mortuary, 515 Fremont street.

"Bill" Scott, as he was known to his many friends, was born in Sacramento, Cal., Feb. 7, 1892, and came to this city in 1914. He entered the military service September, 1918, serving first at Camp Lewis and later overseas. In 1925 he left his position as engineer on the Union Pacific to accept the office of county clerk to which he was elected. He was admitted to the bar in 1933 and since his retirement from political life has been engaged in the practice of law.

In 1920 he married Helen Boyd of this city, who still survives him. He is also survived by two sons, Lynn, 17, and Walter, 15, who are attending Clark county high school.

Rotarians Hear Gov. Otto Nelson

Governor Otto Nelson of the 107th district of Rotary, was given one of the most unusual thrills of his wide-traveled life Wednesday noon when he was entertained at a joint meeting of Boulder City and Las Vegas Rotary clubs.

"There is no setting any place in the world like this," said Governor Otto as a prelude to his inspiring talk. "Here we are — two Rotary clubs, Boulder City and Las Vegas, meeting in Arizona."

The setting referred to was the terrace at the north end of Arizona spillway at Boulder Dam. Tables for the Rotarians and their guests were set in the open with Old Glory waving in the warm sunlight above. A majestic panorama of the gigantic spillway; Boulder Dam with its great intake towers; the deep blue of Lake Mead stretching into the distance; all enclosed by a frame-work of colorful mountains, met the eyes of the 150 or more persons gathered there.

To add to the charm of the unusual scene were the fifty-one members of the Boulder City school band sponsored by Boulder City Rotary Club, all togged out in their colorful new uniforms, with five of the most charming and lovely "major-ettes" in the country leading them. Patriotic music was given in plenty under the leadership of Musical Director W. S. Brown.

Governor Otto, in his talk, gave many interesting experiences of his travels about the world, stressing particularly the leadership which Rotary is assuming in many nations for the promotion of peace. He was received with most enthusiastic applause.

Governor Otto while here had meetings with the officers and committees of both clubs in making plans for the entertainment of the great district convention to be held here next April.

Mr. and Mrs. Denton Hayes have returned to Las Vegas from Wells, Nevada, and expect to be here for some time. Mr. Hayes is employed by the state highway department.

Contract for Construction Of New Hotel Is Awarded

The general contract for construction of the new half-million dollar resort hotel for Las Vegas has been awarded to the William Simpson Construction Company of Los Angeles, according to word just received in Las Vegas.

Mr. Guy Edwards, general manager of the construction company, plans to be in Las Vegas within the next few days to prepare for starting active work on the project.

Considerable interest is being manifested by the group in plans for a formal celebration of the beginning of construction and in the matter of selecting a suitable name for the hotel. Many names, more or less suitable, have already been suggested for the resort, but none yet finally chosen. It is very probable that, in an effort to secure the most appropriate name possible, the company may sponsor a contest in which the public may participate, with a suitable prize for the winner.

Clark County Heads Auto Death List

69 DEAD

NEVADA'S 1939 TOLL

KEEP OUT OF HIS GRASP

DRIVE OUR HIGHWAYS Safely

Nevada's death toll reached an all time high for 1939 with 69 deaths, the highest number of deaths on record in four years. Only three counties, Douglas, Eureka and Storey having attained unblemished records over all other counties which increased their death rate as much as seven times the 1938 total.

Although 1939 closed with a blaze of glory and jubilant celebration the facts disclosed from research made by the Nevada State Highway Department, Safety Division, showed the year to be a tragic one, and one of grave concern to every person in the state.

Sixty-nine dead was the closing figure, a substantial increase of slightly over 13 per cent as compared with the 1938 total of 61.

The human factor still proved itself to be the greatest contributing cause of accidents, speed, intoxication, and physical unfitness far surpassing the accidents caused by slippery or other undesirable road conditions and mechanical defects of vehicles.

Clark county again topped the list as having one of the worst records in the state, having remained as such for the past two years. Clark county's 11 deaths were equalled only by Washoe county's total of the same number. However, Clark county showed a fair reduction of 21.43 per cent over last year when 14 fatalities were in evidence. Eight counties showed reductions varying from 21.43 per cent to 900 per cent, six increased their death rate from 66.67 per cent to 700 per cent while three counties maintained their former records, showing neither increase nor decrease for the two years.

The month of July took the heaviest traffic toll of any single month for the last three years, showing 21 deaths, and by November 30, the accumulative total was equal to the year total of 1938, December's eight fatalities causing the state of Nevada to take one of the lowest ratings issued by the National Safety Council.

Traffic volume and miles traveled during the first 10 months of 1939 exceeded the total of 1938 by 8.6 per cent. This increased volume was greatly due to tourist travel and not local vehicles, and in some measure accounts for the increased percentage in traffic accidents. U. S. Route 40 which received the greater part of this travel contributed 20 fatalities or almost one-third of the deaths recorded.

According to reports only six deaths were accredited to cities and the remaining 63 occurred on the open state routes outside of incorporated or unincorporated areas, involving a total of 1,417 vehicles, 1,406 drivers, 11 vehicles being either parked or without drivers. Of the total 1,417 vehicles involved only 102 were found to be defective and only 163 accidents were in evidence

Little Time Left For CAA Flight Training Enrollment

Providing the advantages of more than five hundred dollars worth of flying and ground instruction for $24, the local school of the CAA will hold its first meeting Monday night.

"We are rather disappointed in the turn out for competitive enrollment," Wes Hauck, president of the local NAA group who was instrumental in obtaining the service for Las Vegas, declared last night.

"Many people are afraid that they would not be able to fulfill the physical examination, but that isn't necessary, because all the Army demands is that a person be normal," he continued.

The course as outlined will include the ground instruction for as many as apply and then competitive examination for flight instruction. The following year the number of flight instruction candidates will be raised from ten to twenty and the candidates this year will be given advanced instruction.

This training not only would be valuable for learning to fly, but also would mean the expenditure of nearly fifteen thousand dollars in Las Vegas during the next two years.

It was also pointed out that five of the class this year who successfully passed advanced training will be absorbed by the national airlines probably as co-pilots.

Application may be made at the Chamber of Commerce office or with Wes Hauck at the El Rio Garage.

Las Vegas Symphonette Well Attended

The Las Vegas Symphonette's weekly rehearsal on Tuesday evening was very enthusiastically attended this week. With plans for the concert in Boulder City the 28th of January, each of the 55 members is kept busy learning his part.

Each of the regular members was given a membership card. Following the rehearsal a very interesting program, arranged by Sylvia Harris kept everyone entertained. Solos by Jeanie Price, Dorothy Frengaskis, Lois Tinch and Lloyd Casey. The Hawaiian guitar orchestra played a very happy hour making plans at their meeting at the Mesquite club Tuesday. Each member brought bright colored crepe paper and the beautiful Hawaiian flower designs were carried out. Mrs. Lambert gave the instruction.

The next public appearance will see all of the guitar players in their own leis, which will add a few more bright notes to their lovely music.

RETURN HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Vail Pittman, who attended the 4-State Highway meet held in Las Vegas last Saturday, left for their Ely home Monday.

Selected Route Dodges Weather For TWA Flying

TWA has received government approval of its plan for "selected route flying," whereby, with a choice of several routes which may be used as "weather detours" about stormy areas, its transcontinental ships simply fly around bad weather instead of through it, according to the announcement made by President Jack Frye, president, and Jack Evans, TWA station manager for TWA at Las Vegas airport.

"After months of preparation, and in line with TWA's traditional conservative operating policy, we are introducing a new type of winter operation which, we believe, will give a close approach to summertime reliability and to summertime flying weather," said President Jack Frye in introducing the subject.

Which means, in short, "you fly when the weather is good." Simple enough when explained properly. So simple, in fact, that we wonder why such a plan was not adopted long ago by all major air transportation companies, instead of adhering to the idea of sticking to the straight line under all conditions.

Wishing Wells Add to Novelty

Under the direction of City Commissioner Gilbert, "wishing wells" have been built on the sidewalks at the corner of First and Fremont and Second and Fremont, into which, it is hoped, the charitably inclined will toss an occasional coin to assist in raising funds for the campaign against infantile paralysis, of which Mrs. Ida Brower-Hancock is chairman for Clark county.

The wells are built of cobbles and concrete, D. G. Lorenzi being the designer and builder. Over each well is a beam supported by the trunks of small pine trees. They give to the street a novel air which will, no doubt, interest tourists. At least, under this arrangement, a person may throw his money away legally, with full assurance it will be devoted to noble cause.

Chamber Elects Three Members

Las Vegas Chamber of Commerce at its Tuesday meeting elected three new members after favorable report of the membership committee. They were: Westward, Ho! Motel, Jimmie Fulcher, proprietor, 1103 S. Fifth street; Wes. Hauck, president Las Vegas Aero club; R. B. Saunders, Auto Top & Class Co., 829 S. Fifth.

The application of Felix Galasso, Tailor, 119 1/2 S. Second, was received and referred to the committee.

HARRY BYER RETURNS

Harry Byer, veteran railroad employee who has made his home in Los Angeles since leaving Vegas some years ago, has returned to this city to reside.

Application may be made at the Chamber of Commerce office or with Wes Hauck at the El Rio Garage.

McCarran Fights For Prospectors

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 19.—Continuing his seven-year battle to aid the Nevada prospector, Senator Pat McCarran announced yesterday that he will revive his bill to support and grubstake prospectors.

The Senator stated: "Through the recent passage of the strategic metals bill with its provisions for the purchase of strategic and critical materials essential for national defense, and through the Bureau of Mines, there now seems a possibility of success in securing passage of my bill."

The McCarran bill, which proposes that prospectors may receive food, clothing, equipment and a living wage in a grubstake agreement with the government while prospecting or developing mines in Nevada, would afford opportunity for the development of the wealth of the country and give employment to many.

The Senator first introduced a grubstake bill in 1933

"Lincoln Day" Banquet Plans Are Made In Meet

Plans for a "Lincoln Day" banquet were made in a meeting of the officers and directors of the Young Republicans, and the leaders of the Republican Central Committee, Thursday night.

Art Ham, long active in local Republican circles was named toastmaster of the event, to be held at the "91" club, by Pat Clark, president of the young republican group.

It is expected that several of the leaders of the party in the northern part of the state will also attend the meeting, while the principal speaker of the affair has been tentatively slated to be the National committeeman from California.

Otto Underhill was named to head the committee making preparations for the banquet, while Frank McNamee was appointed chairman of the entertainment committee to be assisted by Art Ham and Bob Ritter.

Tickets for the affair will be on sale next week it was announced.

BEAUTY SHOP MOVES

The Terry Jane Beauty Shop, formerly in the Mode O' Day, moved to the building next to the Safeway on South Second street and held its opening Friday morning.

It is owned and operated by Terry Jane, Miss Jane has two new operators, Betty Lamont and Virginia Keith, of Reno, who have been in the employ of Charley Mills for the past five years.

Wolf Pack Finds New Confidence

Confidence restored by their recent two-game victory over St. Mary's lumbering Gaels, the University of Nevada Wolves resumed practice here last night in preparation for the opening series of their last season in the Far Western conference.

Chico State's powerful Wildcats will provide the opposition in the California city.

The Pack, which officially withdrew from the conference two weeks ago, picked just about as tough a ball team as it'll find all year to begin its Far Western swan song, because in the Chicotes, Schuchardt's men will be facing one of the most powerful teams ever to be put out at a school that is traditionally powerful in the hoop sport. The wonderful record of the Wildcats piled up in winning the recent California State colleges tournament proves that.

A big, smooth-working, high-scoring outfit, the California quintet is confidently looking forward to its best season in many a year, and they figure Nevada to be just the first step they need in their march toward another conference crown.

However, the very contrast in the type of play employed by the two teams may be just the thing that will give the Pack the break it needs. The Chico team, a smooth veteran squad that sets its own pace in a game and then tries to make the other team play their kind of ball, in all probability hasn't had much of a taste of the kind of play that the rough and tumble, reckless Wolf Pack will give them. That, in the opinion of many fans, is going to be just the thing that will upset the coolness of the Californians and allow the fast-breaking Pack to slip through for an upset.

After the showing made in the Gael series, Schuchardt will probably start two Sparks boys at forwards, Walt Powers and Blake Speers; "Big John" Radovich, leading the Pack with 58 points in four collegiate contests, at center; and Little John Etchemendy and Ted Olsen at guards. Other men who will see plenty of action include Mitch Cobega, Gordon Thompson and Bob Hawley.

The 12-man traveling squad will be complete by John Lemich, Gus Edwards, Jim McNabney and Bob Taylor.

MANY GUESTS ENTERTAINED

The luncheon given by Mesdames R. J. Stevens, Arden Lusch, Lou Woltishek and Hale B. Slavin at the 91 Club last Saturday was a very delightful occasion.

Ninety guests were seated at large round tables with center pieces of daisies and shaded candles. The afternoon was devoted to bridge and "pan."

LEAVE FOR SALT LAKE

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Boggs and Mrs. Jake Beckley will leave the first of the week on a trip to Salt Lake City.

Showing spurts of offensive form the Las Vegas Wildcat quintet last night downed the Moapa Valley high school five 30-18.

Handicapped by the discipline benching of two first string men, Foley and Bunker, the Vegas team looked particularly ragged under the basket until the closing minutes of the game. Kenny Blake, only veteran on the floor for the Vegas, turned in a fine game, scoring 11 points. The spearhead of the Wildcat attack, Blake's biggest job was keeping the younger, inexperienced Wildcats from throwing the game away entirely.

Starting out fast the Valley boys poured in four points before the locals realized the game had started. Then Blake organized the Wildcat five and the game turned into a pitched battle until late in the game when the Vegas walked off with the honors.

Benton Smith, rangy center, showed worlds of defensive ability, and made five points to help the offense. Smith kept the willing little Whitney boy, from the valley, from throwing the ball in on outside plays, and time after time took possession because he couldn't throw the ball into play in the allotted time.

For the Moapa team Earl was easily the outstanding player making ten of his team's points, while C. Whitney did a yeoman job on defense.

Officials for the game were Spears and Wadsworth.

Snow Brings Joy To Nevada Skiers

With Bob Roecker, national Class A jumping champion, at last safely registered in school, snow conditions as perfect as they can ever become, and plans nearing completion for the University of Nevada's fourth annual Winter Carnival and ski tournament, Varsity Ski Coach Wayne Poulsen relaxed a little for the first time in two months yesterday.

"It finally looks like we're going to have a ski team here," was the way he summed it up.

Poulsen had some reason to be optimistic. With snow falling to a depth of nearly three feet at Galena creek, it takes his squad only a very few minutes to get to and from practice, so the time of workout sessions has been nearly doubled every day. Besides that, two members of the squad, Fraser West, captain and three-year veteran, and Toby Larsen, one of the outstanding freshmen of the year, left for Sun Valley Sunday, where they will take part in the famed Nine States meet, representing the state of Nevada.

"The competition will do them both a world of good as will working out under the pros there," Poulsen said.

The only dark cloud on the snow's horizon, in fact, was that of intelligibility. Warren Hart, freshman sensation, and possibly Toby Larsen and others, are at present having difficulty in trying to straighten out their scholastic troubles; and it is this that Poulsen fears will now break up the balance of his embryo squad. All those who have had difficulty, however, may have the matter straightened out in time for competition, Poulsen said.

Meantime, Ski Carnival plans were progressing rapidly as more and more of the leading coast schools signified their intention of sending representatives to the affair.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCEMENT

Cards have been received in Las Vegas announcing the engagement of Miss Nora Joan King to Mr. John William Park of Santa Monica.

This lovely young woman is the daughter of Mrs. Samuel Arthur King, who makes her winter home in Pasadena but the family home is in Nantucket, R. I.

Miss King's girlhood was spent in Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania, where her father was connected with the college. She is a senior at Stanford university and will graduate in June.

Mr. Park was born in Las Vegas at "Park Farms" and is the son of Dr. and Mrs. W. S. Park. After graduating from the Las Vegas high school he attended the San Diego military academy and then entered Stanford, where he graduated as an aeronautics engineer. He is a young man of exemplary character and we bespeak for these young people a long and happy life together.
