Drivers' Laws Pay Big Returns

CHICAGO - "There are few laws any state legislature could pass that would pay richer dividends in safety, comfort and driving pleasure to all highway users than the Standard Drivers License Law, uniform accident reporting and the remainder of the Uniform Vehicle Code.' This assertion was made today by Sidney J. Williams, director of the National Safety Council's Public

Mr. Willims' statement was directed at citizens and law-makers in 44 states whose legislatures are meeting in regular session this year.

"Most states," he said, "have some type of license reporting laws and highway patrols. The need is not only for initial establishment of these measures but also for the improving of their quality.

"In planning your traffic safety legislative program, the National Safety Council suggests that existing statutes be checked to see how nearly they conform to provisions of the Uniform Vehicle Code.

"Then find out what organizations in your state are supporting traffic safety legislation and offer your help. In addition, let your legislators know you wont them to support James Cashman has arrived in Las state a well-rounded traffic safety
