Kindergarten for Gobs

Strange to relate, the metamorphosis that transforms the civilian into a sailor takes place on dry land. The United States naval training station at Newport, R. I., is one of the four such institutions maintained by the navy for turning civilians into sailors. When a recruit is accepted into the U. S. navy he undergoes intensive training, lasting eight weeks, during which time he crosses the bridge between civilian and naval life. Currently there are 2,087 recruits taking the eight weeks' course as the start of a six-year enlistment. These photos take you to the U. S. naval training station at Newport, R. I.

MARKSMANSHIP . . . The landlubber does not usually associate the sailor with a rifle, but naval recruits must learn to shoot straight. Here is a class on the rifle range at the U. S. naval training station, Newport, R. I., during target practice.
