The gaily enameled unit insignia you see on a soldier's lapels and overseas cap are reproductions of his regimental shield displayed in the center of the eagle on his regimental flag. It's a part of U. S. Army tradition. Traditional, too, is the Army man's preference for Camel Cigarettes. (Based on actual sales records from Post Exchanges and Sales Commissaries.) It's the gift he rates first from the folks back home. Local dealers are featuring cartons of Camels to send to service men.—Adv.

RASHES Externally Caused. Relieve fiery itching and allay further irritation with active, specially medicated RESINOL.

THE PAPERS OF PRIVATE PURKEY

Dear Ma and Pop: Well, it has now been almost two years since I said 'No' to anybody. It is an unknown word in the army, in fact this is one place where a man can't even say, 'I'll think it over.' I know this will be hard for you to believe on account of when I was home it was so hard for you to get me to do anything.

I got to thinking last night about famous words and expressions that I don't use or hear no more and I made up a list. Here it is: 'Wait a while.' 'Do it yourself; can't you see I'm busy?' 'Take these eggs back and cook them over.'

'You can't talk to me like that.' 'Either you change the hours or I quit.' 'Don't wake me up before noon.' 'I haven't got time just now.'

'Can't it go till later on?' 'You know I can't eat meat rare like this.'

'Tell the tailor to have those two sports suits back this afternoon.' 'Where's that new blue silk shirt of mine?' 'I won't be in tomorrow; I'm going to the ball game.'

'You know I can't do any heavy lifting.' 'Let's take a bus; I hate walking.' 'Either I get more money or I'll go some place else.'

'I know I was up late last night but look at all the time I've got to sleep today.' 'I don't want any trouble with anybody.' (Remember that one?) 'I'm checking out and going to the shore for a few days rest.'
