

WEST LAS VEGAS RECREATION JOBS KEEP BOSSES BUSY

THERE'S SOMETHING DOING most of the time in the West Las Vegas recreation program under the capable supervision of director Joe Haynes and his chief assistant, Shirley McDaniel, as these photos of activities at Jefferson and Doolittle centers vividly testify. Large photo (1) shows instructor Evelyn Thaler and her Thursday night Boys Club art class at Jefferson Center, with aide Danny Thaler at rear right. Seated in front of Mrs. Thaler at table are Michael Dewain Dossey, Michael Jones, Keith Bell, Philip Bell, Jr.; Demasco Ford and Casley Bass. (2) Haynes and Mrs. McDaniel prepare 2,000 survey forms for mailing to children and adults in community. Replies will help them plan more acceptable program. (3) Haynes threads 16 mm educational film in projection machine. Movies are shown at Jefferson Center Thursday afternoons during spring and summer; Thursday nights during fall and winter. (4) Haynes points to one of portable partitions that permits Doolittle Center to be divided into five separate rooms, while Mrs. McDaniel eyes one of four electric sewing machines available. Full length mirrors (rear left) come in handy for "slim and trim" calisthenics class. (5) Mrs. McDaniel inspects cabinets, refrigerator, stove and sink in new Doolittle Center kitchen. (6) Bobby Clark is applauded as he completes perfectly-executed swan dive at Doolittle Pool. (7) Foam obscures John Howard, Yolanda Rodriguez, Scott Chaney, Vera Moore and Darnell Martin as they race down Doolittle Pool. (8) Finals of table tennis tournament at Jefferson Center draws enthusiastic gallery. Table tennis and skill pool are popular indoor sports and many fine players have been developed in West Las Vegas.
