English Institute Set For Reno in Summer On Nevada Campus

WASHINGTON, D. C.--The University of Nevada has been awarded a contract to conduct an English institute this summer for 50 teachers in elementary and secondary schools according to Sen. Howard W. Cannon. Cannon said the advanced study program approved by the U. S. Office of Education, will be held on the Reno campus from June 21 to July 31.

Teachers and specialists in public and non-public elementary and secondary schools are eligible to apply for the institute. All participants will receive stipends of $75 per week plus $15 a week for each dependent. Criteria of eligibility and selection of participants are determined by the University.

Cannon said the institute is designed to improve knowledge of subject matter and to increase competency in the use of new materials.

Dr. Robert M. Gorrell, director of the UN Department of English, will direct the institute.
