Graduates Advised: Prepare for Change

SEN. HOWARD W. CANNON has urged 1965 graduates to "accept the factor of constant change in their future and prepare for it rather than fight it." His advice was contained in a Baccalaureate address at Moapa Valley High School.

"It is very probable that you will have to change jobs and enter a number of fields in your lifetime," Cannon said. "This means that the job you start this year or prepare for in college may well be non-existent in 5 or 10 years because of scientific and technological change." He expressed confidence that tomorrow's world would be much better in terms of leisure, abundance, health, culture and spiritual rewards.

The senator said that wise use of manpower is critical to an individual, his community and his country. He said 70 percent of all economic research and development is directly or indirectly borne by the federal government today. Without it, he added, nuclear rocket engines, mighty dams and flood control projects and development of supersonic-speed passenger planes would be impossible.

Urging students to pursue their educational efforts, he said, "Your investment in education today will allow you to enjoy tomorrow the rewards of a full adult life. Not only will you be able to get and hold a good job, you also will be equipped with the knowledge to meet the great complexities of living in the 1970's and beyond."
