We've Been WONDERING

WHY our chum from Clydesville with the Narcissus-like complex doesn't take a good look at the happenings before he bedsacks with the rose-colored specs. (Honey, dues paying is just NOT enough).

WHY did that narsty ole columnist who writes for one of the dailies use the adjective "OLD" to describe one of our yester-year big name entertainers. (tut, tut, and tut).

WHY when equally poetic justice (like being terminated) is meted out to any one of the labor force from the old school who refuse to even try to meet the standards set by newer employees who strive to give an honest day's work, they invariably let out with that tired old rationalization "Dey got rid o' me cause I knows more'n dey did".

WHY Fumesville takes on such a delightful fragrance when making chit chat with guys like Lou (drummer-man) Grey. His Boutique Shop for those that dig his fittings has all the warmth of a log fireplace at Christmas time.
? ? ? ? ?

WHY many motorists seem to have the bizarre notion that the driver behind them is able to anticipate their every careless operation of what can be a lethal weapon.
? ? ? ? ?

WHY those long-time jive professional favor-seekers make like that internationally respected philanthropic fisherman is the MUCH-MOST as long as they are receiving a helping hand from him. When the Fisherman refuses to go along with the petty schemes of these unmitigated political prostitutes, his refusing to play ball provokes the donning of sack cloth and ashes (with gloves yet).
? ? ? ? ?

WHY the sequences of 20-40-1-16-10-69-35-38 and 19-66-28-18-31-1-11-31 are supposed to be lucky for persons born in September, November and December.
? ? ? ? ?

WHY that dine-out spot which could really be haven for gourmets who would consider the semi-expensive, well-prepared goodies a welcome bargain don't get the message about the need for the little things that mean so much (like tea bags and lemon slices).
? ? ? ? ?

WHY the catchy commercial "finger-licking good" has so many of the Mistresses and Mistresses of the "make-me shudder act" upset. . . the first thing most of us were told was "take yo' fingers outta yo' mouth".

WHY those veddy understanding souls (pink variety) don't check the blessing to 'C' street and to humanity in the person of Sister Charles of the Divine Providence Day School. The Sister is really doing wonders with the small fry, like my little man, five-year-old Johnny Reid, reciting the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag in its entirety, and accurately.
? ? ? ? ?

WHY the heaven-sent opportunity for self-advancement in these times of ever-increasing automation is not being used to more advantage, and by so few--there are many thousands of us that could use the training offered.

WHY Eddie continues to out-brag his customers that "it's going to be different the next time he makes the greens scene--Don't let Cliff be the "hanger-out-to-dry", if friend Eddie doesn't start to putting the driver and the putter where his mouth is.

said. "But on the home front Congress will be reluctant and in some instances opposed to launching any massive new program."

After setting a record of achievement in its first session, Bible said, the 89th Congress will refine and apply its work and "avoid going too far, too fast."

"CONGRESS WILL have to balance our growing burdens abroad against our needs and problems at home," the Nevada Senator said. "After cutting taxes in two successive years it will not want to raise taxes."

Bible announced his support of several Presidential proposals, including increased crime prevention and highway safety, stiffened laws against corrupt political campaign practices, improved income tax withholding practices and a four-year term for Congressmen.

But he said he would continue to oppose legislation to nullify state right-to-work laws and any tax increase "unless absolutely essential."

Bible said he hesitated to comment on the President's fiscal proposals until the Executive Budget is available to Congress.

WASHINGTON--Senator Alan Bible of Nevada was among more than 40 senators joining in sponsorship this week of a resolution aimed at halting the spread of nuclear weapons.

The resolution supports "urgent and serious efforts" by the President to negotiate international agreements to limit nuclear proliferation.

"Nuclear capability is fast coming within the reach of more and more nations," Bible said. "As the number of countries arming themselves with atomic weapons increases, the danger of irresponsible use increases--and with this, there is the inevitable increase in the threat of world wide holocaust."

BIBLE SAID it is essential to preserve control and responsibility "or the day can come when irrational despots can blackmail mankind with a nuclear trigger finger."

The resolution, he added, is more than an expression of interest by the Senate.

"It is an instrument which can immeasurably strengthen and guide the President in this vital area," Bible declared.

WASHINGTON--Senator Alan Bible said today the Bureau of Reclamation's budget request includes $26.2 million for projects wholly or partly within Nevada, a $10 million increase over the current fiscal year.

Most of the increase, Bible said, is for construction in Nevada on the Pacific Northwest-Pacific Southwest Power Intertie, the Boulder Canyon Project and the Washoe Reclamation Project.

The Nevada Senator emphasized the total did not include funds for the Southern Nevada Water Project, authorized late in 1965, which will be sought separately.

BIBLE SAID $8.9 million is budgeted for the federal portion of the intertie, a direct-current transmission line running from the Oregon border to Hoover Dam. Initial work on this line in the current year totals $3.2 million.

Some $2.2 million requested for the Washoe Project, Bible said, will continue construction of Stampede Dam on the Little Truckee River and finance pre-construction planning for Wataheamü Dam on the North Fork of the Carson River. It is an increase of $1.5 million over current spending.

Bible said the Bureau requests $1.7 million in the Boulder Canyon Project for constructing reservoir and pipeline facilities connecting with Boulder City's water system.

Other reclamation budget requests listed by Bible included: General Investigations--Moapa Valley Pumping Project, Clark County, $100,000; ultimate phase of Washoe Project, $85,928; Inland Basins Project, Nevada-California, $130,000.

OPERATION AND maintenance -- Boulder Canyon Project, $2.1 million; Colorado River front work, $5.1 million; Parker-Davis Project, $3.4 million; Washoe Project, $12,500.

General Administration, $729,550.
