FOLEY FILES

JOHN P. FOLEY, a member of a pioneer family active in legal circles for more than half a century, will become a candidate today for Lieutenant Governor in the Carson City office of Secretary of State John Koontz. He is a Democrat.

Foley, 38, is the son of retired U.S. District Judge Roger T. Foley, and a brother of one of Nevada's present Federal Judges, Roger D. Foley. He is in the practice of law in Las Vegas with two other brothers, Thomas and Joseph. A fourth brother, George, is also an attorney with another firm. All but John are natives of Goldfield.

In filing his declaration of candidacy, Foley said he has been encouraged since last July in traveling throughout Nevada counseling with fellow-Democrats and covering more than 8,000 miles.

Foley is a 1950 graduate of the University of Nevada, after which he attended Georgetown University Law School in Washington, D.C. While attending Law School, he worked as a capitol policeman through the patronage of the late Sen. Pat McCarran. He was graduated from Georgetown in 1953 and admitted to the Nevada State Bar that same year.

Shortly after passing his bar examination, Foley entered the U.S. Army, and after his discharge two years later, he joined his brothers in the family law firm and married the former Phyllis Daum of Englewood, Colorado. They have four children.
