INFORMATION

By "The Crappie Catcher"

WE ARE NOW entering a transitional period in Lake Mead fishing. The spawning period is over and the fish have moved out of the shallow spawning grounds into deep recesses of our mammoth fishing hole.

Night fishing for crappie remains fairly productive. For the past two weeks, we have had excellent catches of crappie in Cathedral Cove which is located on the western shoreline immediately opposite Sheep Island in the Echo Bay area.

Our luck with bass has not been anything to brag about. The old timers who guide fishing parties in the Overton-Echo Bay arm of Lake Mead have been spotted fishing deep holes--30 to 40 feet, or deeper. They are reported to be making fairly good catches of bass, but not nearly so good as they were doing a month ago.

Our best tip (if you fish that region of Mead) is to keep a sharp look-out for the guides' boats and follow their movements. They know their fishing spots better than anyone. They know from previous years, where to hunt bass when they move off their spawning grounds. If they don't find them in one spot, they quickly move to another hole that paid-off in yesteryears. If you play follow the leader behind the movements of these professionals, you will learn their secret holes and also catch more bass than you would by following your own trial and error methods.

If the bass are biting, the old timers will lead you to them. If you don't catch fish in their spots, the first time you follow-the-leader, chart the spot carefully by landmarks in order to find that hole the next time you fish the area.

TO ACCURATELY MARK any spot on water, you search for a landmark that is easy to see, and to remember, on each shoreline, so that a line drawn between these two markers will pass smack-dab through the middle of your boat. This alignment must be repeated by selecting two other landmarks which, when aligned, will also pass through the spot.

You must have two lines of landmark alignment which cross each other. The spot where they cross is the location of your boat which is right over the old pro's fishing hole.

Study the features of your landmarks carefully so there will be no question in your mind when you return to the area at some later date.

The old saying that X marks the spot is your key to returning to the exact fishing hole every time you want to fish it.

SANDY was a Dandy, Sunday before a SRO crowd in Atlanta who saw the DODGERS defeat the BRAVES 2 to 1. KOUFAX, Baseball's superstar attraction, was superb down to the last inning--striking out MACK JONES to end the game and chalk up his 14th win for the season TOMMIE AGEE is one of the lone bright spots in pretty dismal season for the CHICAGO WHITE SOX... One of his teammates is quoted as saying "AGEE has the potential of being the WILLIE MAYS of the American League". The comparison with the exciting San Francisco center fielder is obvious--AGEE is a flashfielder, a daring base-runner, has a strong arm, and the knack of running out from under his cap-- Now all he has to do is start hitting the ball like MAYS, or even near like it.

On the local scene, JOHN DAVID, Nevada Test Site's ace hurler, is now batting a terrific 450 for 15 games, and is tied in the home-run department with Marcel's DOC BANANTO.

All Americans, DAVE SCHILLASE of PURDUE and CLYDE LEE of VANDERBILT, along with 11 others of the nation's leading amateur basketball players, have been selected to play a series of games in the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, and Poland.

BOB MURPHY of Florida won the National Amateur Gold Championship at Stanford, California with a 283 score, and National Open Champ, BILLY CASPAR shook up the pros again, walking off with first place money in the Western Open Tournament in Chicago. CASPAR is now the leading money winner of the season.

RALPH BOSTON, CHARLIE GREEN, WILLIE DAVENPORT, and BOB SEAGREEN led a parade of favorites to victory in the first eight events of the 79th National AAU track and field championships meet held in Massachusetts Saturday.

CELEBRITY GOLF MATCH

BREEKSVILLE, Ohio - (NPI)--The Sixth City Golf Club expects that the Cleveland Open tournament to be held July 3-4, 1966 over the rolling green hills of the Seneca Golf Course, will be their greatest to date. This will be the 19th annual tournament sponsored by the UGA-oriented Sixth City golfers.

President Clarence Watson, a top-flight golfer, announced that the Negro Industrial and Economic Union and Radio Station WJMO are cooperatively sponsoring the tourney which promises a $5,001 pro purse to professionals, of any race, who wish to play.

The 36-hole nedal play with 18 holes starting on Sunday, features the pros with an entry fee of $25. For the men and women's amateurs, there will be three trophies in each flight and prizes. In the Championship Flight, there will be prizes for first, second and third low total score. Four Flights A-B-C-C-D low total wins each flight. In Women's Amateur, the three low totalists will also be decided. Entry fee, including greens fee will be $10 for women and $13 for men.

Cleveland is one of the major golf centers in the world, and the Sixth City Golf club has some of the finest golfers in the nation. Adding to their attraction will be a "Celebrity Match," pitting some of the most fabulous athletes in the world against each other.

Along with Pro Charles Sifford, expected in attendance are Wilt "Stilt" Chamberlain, Big Bill Russell, Billy Eckstine, Joe Louis, Cassius Clay, Dick "Night Train" Lane, Jackie Robinson and of course, Jim Brown, the founder of the NIEU and a low scoring golfer who copped the National Football League first place last year in Miami.

Al Liggins is director of the tournament with John (Cleveland Browns) Wooten serving as coordinator.

And all reports are that MEXICO CITY is in a state of frenzied activity preparing for the 1968 OLYMPICS.
