

We've Been WONDERING

WHY some supposed-to-be business folks are constantly complaining that their employees are no good, or, when they are lucky enough to get a good worker, the worker doesn't stay with it very long... "Bryl Creme 'Bread'" (a little dab will do you) is generally most always the employer's warped philosophy that creates this problem.

WHY that certain Merry Matron had to make it to Carson City before mustering enough nerve to smoke a stogie... Honey, you are a Jennie-come-lately--some of my female kin have been dipping snuff, chewing tobacco, and smoking corn cobs for a LONG time.

? ? ? ? ?

WHY "Over-Hipped" doesn't read the menu before ordering his meal. The other noon he walked in the door hollering "gimme de spechul", and upon having the special brought to him (Corned Beef & Cabbage), he screamed "Ah didn't order dat, Ah wants me some "soul vittles".

? ? ? ? ?

WHY everybody is rushing to Skaggs to get a do-it-yourself kit? Maybe that $2.75 price on haircuts has something to do with it.

? ? ? ? ?

WHY when Clean, Bean-Head Benny was making it with the "Secret Sauce that made the Bar-B-Que Boss", he didn't mind being called Bean Head, but now that he is a past master in the art of manipulating the pasteboards, he doesn't want to be called Bean Head anymore. O.K., "Mr." Bean-Head Benny.

? ? ? ? ?

WHY Once-in-a-lifetime dolls like Leola "A" can't happen more often... Her professional and social "know-how" is uniquely characterized by that indefinable but recognizable attribute we call "Soul".

? ? ? ? ?

WHY the sequences of 2-3-6-7-16-17-18-30, and 16-19-37-53-56-70-78-80 are supposed to be lucky for persons born in December, January, and February.

? ? ? ? ?

WHY that Grand Dame, long-time practitioner of the art of dispelling evil spirits who claims ability to induce prosperity and happiness, doesn't conjure up something to cool the action of her wacky, silly dilly loverboynic.

? ? ? ? ?

WHY those who are running Q. B. Bush down because of his regular visit to that certain "E" street Beauty Salon, don't offer comfort and understanding rather than derision--the good fellow is only trying to preserve his off-charcoal paint job.

? ? ? ? ?

WHY more dignified gentlemen like Judge Mowbray aren't elected to serve the people with "equal justice for all".

? ? ? ? ?

WHY whenever there is a shake-up in the service scene on the Strip, those who claim to have the most juice are the first to feel the shock of being on the outside.

? ? ? ? ?

WHY that GOP VIP is smiling so pretty at the Soul Brothers--and doing lots of talking and shaking lots of hands over this-a-way? I got news for him--those same hands he is shaking today are going to trip the Sawyer lever in November.

Lynching Takes New Form

NATCHEZ, Miss.-(NPI)--Something new has happened in this hotbed of Klan activity: Local law enforcement officials went after three white men charged with murdering an elderly Negro man.

The trio said to be members of the Ku Klux Klan, are charged with murder in the death of Ben Chester White, 65, who has had no connection with civil rights activities. According to federal sources, the White case was the first with racial angles which had been handled entirely by local authorities "in a long time."

The accused are Claude W. Fuller, 46, of Kingston; Ernest H. Avants, 35, of Washington; and James Lloyd Jones, 56, of Natchez. All were being held in Adams county jail without bond. Avants and Fuller were identified as Klansmen by the House Committee on Un-American Activities. Jones was also said to have Klan associations.

Sheriff Odell Anders said White had been shot 16 times in the chest and arms with a rifle. He also had been hit in the head by a shotgun blast. His body was dumped into a creek a few miles south of Natchez. It was found two days later.

SWIMMING A SKILL TO BE LEARNED EARLY

By Samuel L. Andelman, M.D., M.P.H.
Chicago Commissioner of Health

Swimming, one of the most popular summer recreations, is so important a skill from the standpoint of survival that everyone should learn it in childhood. Knowing how to survive in the water would save the lives of many children who drown every year. More often than not, these children were not wading or swimming, but slipped off a boat or a pier.

In teaching your child to swim, avoid talking about the dangers of drowning and stress the fun he will have. Above all, don't use the old method of throwing your child into the water where he will learn by thrashing about that he can't keep afloat, because this may well instill a deep and lasting fear in him of the water.

AT FIRST, let him wade in shallow water until he feels at home there. When he shows an interest in swimming, support him in the water while teaching him the proper motions. Stay with him and encourage him, but let him advance in swimming ability at his own pace. Avoid letting him become over-fatigued.

When he has learned to swim a few strokes, teach him to float on his back and on his face and to tread water before allowing him to venture out beyond his depth. A little later he should learn the principles of lifesaving including mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

He should swim only in supervised areas and preferably always with a buddy. Ducking and horseplay in the water should never be allowed. Having learned these minimum essentials, let your child "get in the swim" for a summer of healthful exercise.

Whether you and your family intend to swim in a lake, a river, or a pool, these are the 10 commandments for swimming safety.

--Never swim alone.

--Never go out beyond wading depth until you have learned to float on your back.

--Don't permit ducking or horseplay in the water.

--Stay away from the water during thunderstorms.

--If you get tired while swimming, don't panic! Conserve your strength by floating or treading water.

--Don't dive into water that is less than eight feet deep.

--Don't allow children who can't swim to play on an inflatable raft. The raft can carry them from shore, or a tear can deflate the raft.

--Be sure that someone who can give artificial respiration is present at all times when children are in the water.

--Never swim where motor boats are in motion.

--IF YOU CAN'T SWIM, TAKE LESSONS.

KLAN LEADER'S TRIAL

WASHINGTON-(NPI)--Robert N. Shelton, Ku Klux Klan leader, evidently decided that sauce for the goose is also good for the gander as he subpoenaed the chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities to appear at his trial for contempt of Congress.

Shelton, a witness at HUAC hearings on Klan activity, had been directed to produce subpoenaed KKK records. Now he has summoned Rep. Edwin E. Willis, HUAC chairman, to bring all committee records on the Klan to the trial.

SHELTON REFUSED to testify before the HUAC and was cited for contempt of Congress when he failed to produce subpoenaed records. He was later indicted by a federal grand jury.

The subpoenas ordered Willis and Francis J. McNamara, HUAC staff director, to appear as witnesses for Shelton at his trial in Federal District court Sept. 12.

Meanwhile, Rep. Willis introduced a bill in the House making it a federal crime for any clandestine organization like the Klan to try to harm or kill anyone, or even to advocate force or intimidation.
