S.W. Gas Offers Air Conditioning Special

Max K. Nauman, marketing vice president for Southwest Gas Corporation, has announced a special summer program for the installation of domestic air conditioning systems.

The program permits the home owner to install combination air conditioning and gas heating at low monthly cost through a five-year financing plan. Wherever practicable Southwest Gas Corporation will extend its mains to new customers desiring natural gas service through this program, according to Nauman.

"AN IMPORTANT feature of this program is the manufacturer's unconditional warranty," Nauman said. "It gives the home owner absolutely free labor and parts on any necessary repairs for five years.

"Equipment to be installed through this program is especially designed for the desert temperatures of this area," he stated. "Thus, the manufacturer is able to offer such a liberal warranty."

According to Nauman, home owners can purchase the new equipment for no down payment and five year's financing at 4% interest. Payments can be made with the monthly gas bill.

"This liberal financing means that most homes can have a new whole-house heating and cooling system for about $25 a month," Nauman said. "This includes installation and the 5-year warranty for free parts and labor.

"It is the most ambitious program Southwest Gas has undertaken in Las Vegas. It is available not only to our present customers, but wherever it is economically feasible we will connect homes that are not currently on our lines."

Nauman said installations will be made through the manufacturers' factory branch in Las Vegas. Servicing of the equipment under the 5-year warranty will also be handled by the manufacturer.

Negro Space Technician

KWAJALEIN, Marshall Islands - (NPI)-- For John A. Powell, 46-year-old RCA field service technician from Philadelphia, service in the South Pacific is old stuff, but his new assignment is something else again.

Powell has become the first Negro to be involved in the U.S. space research program as a missile tracking station technician. He was brought to the Marshall Islands for that purpose by Radio Corporation of America after passing a competitive examination.

A product of Tuskegee Institute, and the University of Hawaii, where he took electronic courses, Powell received additional training at the Brooklyn Navy yard, where he was electrical power house inspector until 1962. He also served with the Office of Civilian Personnel, War Department, as a communication technician-inspector, stationed in Japan, Okinawa, Guam and the Philippines.
