

Wire-Tap Hit By Cannon

WASHINGTON--The Justice Department is being urged by Nevada Sen. Howard W. Cannon to rewrite its outmoded anti-wiretap law to include improvements made possible by modern electronics.

IN A statement on the Senate floor, Cannon pointed out that since the 1934 law on wiretapping new devices had come into use which were known as "bugging" and did not require wires. These, he said, "represent an application of a more sophisticated technology in the electronic age."

Cannon declared that by whatever name the "obnoxious and undesirable" practice was called "we are talking about...violation of the basic right of privacy which the government should be guarding for all citizens." He said use of eavesdropping by federal officials probably has "a negative effect in our war on crime."

A new law should ban "all eavesdropping or surreptitious listening whether by mechanical or other means except in cases of national security upon the issuance of a proper court order," the senator said.

"I BELIEVE that the executive department should come forward with their recommendation for a law which would deal fairly and constitutionally with the rights of the public and the obligation of policing agencies to protect society," he commented.

Cannon commended the work of Sen. Edward Long and his Senate subcommittee which have been holding hearings on the subject and credited his colleagues with bringing public attention to the problem.

Nevada Senators Too

WASHINGTON, D. C.--Recent legislation passed by the Senate will give a badly-needed boost to mining activity in Nevada and other Western States, Senators Alan Bible and Howard Cannon said.

The Nevada Senators, in a joint statement, said the bill to provide tax incentives for mineral exploration will help the U.S. develop more of its mineral wealth in a time when many metals are in critically short supply.

THE BILL removes the current $100,000 yearly and $400,000 overall limitation on tax deductions for exploration expenses. It also adds a provision for repayment of deductions if the exploration results in production or profitable sales.

Under the Senate version, co-sponsored by Bible and Cannon, miners could elect to stay with current provisions if they have not exceeded the limitations.

"Our Nation has vast untapped mineral resources," Bible said. "It is in the interest of both our mining economy and our national security to develop them more fully."

"ON A long range basis the cost of this new incentive program will be very small but its benefits can be immense," Cannon declared.

But both Senators emphasized that exploration incentives were only one small step toward revitalizing domestic mining. They said Federal subsidies and more realistic price policies must be adopted to deal most effectively with mining needs.

BLESS HIM

NEW YORK - (NPI)
--A Negro resident defied threats to attend City Hall ceremonies honoring a white policeman who saved his infant son's life. William West's newborn son was on the receiving end of mouth-to-mouth resuscitation administered by Patrolman Philip Markey, who has been accused of brutality in a Coney Island racial disturbance. He was warned by a group of Negroes that his attendance at the ceremonies would help the patrolman's case. But West went anyway.

AMEN

GENEVA - (NPI)--
The church must "march with those in the society who cannot alone win their battle for justice, freedom and equality," declared the Rev. Eugene Carson Blake, secretary general-elect, World Council of Churches, at its worldwide conference in session here last week. He added, "I am convinced that the putting of one's body in the right place, at the right time, is the only way a Christian can help his church to be a part of the transformation of society."

ADULT EDUCATION

ANOTHER BANNER YEAR is predicted for the Adult Education Department of the Clark County School District which offers both high school diploma degree courses and classes of general adult interest.

Located at 401 South Ninth Street, the District's Vocational-Technical and Adult Education office last year offered 424 classes with more than 8,000 students enrolled. These figures represented a 31 per cent increase in classes and a 38 per cent enrollment increase over 1964-65. Director Ray Sturm pointed out.

Most courses for the new school year are due to start in September. Interested persons may pick up course schedules at the Adult Education Office. Attention is also invited to the fact that the facility does have a new telephone number.

"Jobs are going begging by the thousands because unemployed workers do not have the skills required to fill them," Sturm said. "The Department of Labor has estimated that more than two million jobs will be vacated in the present decade as a result of technological change. But there will be a far greater number of new jobs for those who have the necessary skills," Sturm added.

LAST YEAR there were 836 enrollments in 37 high school credit courses with 80 students completing the necessary requirements for high school diplomas against 49 the previous year.

The width and breadth of Adult Education is considerable. General areas include Data Processing, Electronics Education, Office Occupations, Practical Nursing Education, General Education, General Interest, Trade and Industrial, Homemaking, and Distributive Education not to mention such specialty areas as Apprenticeship, Journeyman upgrading, and Manpower Development Training.

The Adult Education Office is always responsive to Special Classes in almost any interest area provided a qualified instructor can be obtained and a minimum of 15 adults can be enrolled. Clubs and social groups are invited to contact the Adult Education Office for particulars.
