CORE HURTING

NEW YORK--(NPI)--The Congress of Racial Equality last week was reportedly in "serious financial straits," after the civil rights organization was hit with a $22,500 tax lien.

The lien, filed by the Internal Revenue service in Federal District Court was for income and social security taxes totalling $25,000 collected from CORE employees but not transmitted to the IRS, it was reported.

Contacted shortly after the filing of the lien, Lincoln Lynch, CORE's associate director, said he had no immediate knowledge of it. "We really don't know if it exists." However, Lynch was reportedly admitted that CORE is in financial difficulty. Also, a recently resigned official is said to have placed CORE's current financial deficit at above $350,000.

Several moves by CORE recently seems to support the reports of its financial difficulties. The organization has cut its staff about 30 per cent. The national staff has been trimmed down to 65 workers, most of whom operate across the national, and those let go included many long-standing employees.

Meanwhile, the organization has moved its headquarters from a $1,000 monthly location in downtown Manhattan, to a $500 a month address in Harlem. But Lynch explained that move as the decision of the organization to be in closer contact with Negroes and their needs.

CORE's income three years ago was reportedly $1 million a year, but a series of developments have said to have contributed to its drastic curtailment. They include passage of the 1964 Civil Rights Act and the 1965 Voting Bill which allegedly led many whites to believe their contributions were no longer needed.

Moreover, CORE's outspoken advocacy of the "Black Power" philosophy has reportedly hurt its financial posture.
