ELECT PAUL LAXALT GOVERNOR

Prefer Prison To War

LOS ANGELES--(NPI)--A federal judge had bad news for two young Negroes who sought to stay out of Viet Nam fighting on grounds that they are not citizens but colonial subjects. U. S. District Judge Leon R. Yankwich denied the claim of Karl Von Key, 21, and Norman Earl Richmond, 20, who refused to appear for induction in June.

The two attempted to show that Negroes do not enjoy first-class citizenship and that the war in Viet Nam is "illegal." But Judge Yankwich countered that the Supreme court has upheld Congress' right to wage war when it chooses. The young men's attorney, George T. Altman, announced he would appeal the decision to the 9th Circuit Court of Appeal's.

Meanwhile, U. S. Supreme Court Justice William J. Brennan Jr. refused to delay the punishment of three Army privates who refused to fight in Viet Nam. Court martial sentences were handed down Sept. 9 against Pvt. Dennis Mora, 25, and James A. Johnson, 20, a Negro--both of New York, along with Pvt. David A. Samas, 20, of Modesto, Calif.
