

WHO'S WHO

and doing what

MY THOUGHTS AT THANKSGIVING

Offer unto God thanksgiving--and say thy vows Unto the Most High. (Ps. 50:14)

I am thankful for the understanding I have gained about the power of a sincere prayer uttered at any hour unto a God who never sleeps.

I am thankful for the knowledge I have finally attained about childlike faith in the mercy of God when I have floundered in judgment. I have finally discovered the boundless mercies and blessings I can receive by sincerely admitting my shortcomings to Him in a simple but contrite prayer.

I am thankful for finally learning not to pray for worldly things. Now I pray for daily guidance and a chance to be of service unto my God and my fellow man. I have always received my needs after this kind of prayer.

WHEN MY severest debt was upon me--I sort of talked to my Friend upstairs telling Him that I depended completely upon Him to solve my problem. He did.

I find I no longer have time to be jealous of my neighbor's car. Instead, I am deeply thankful for having a means of transportation.

I believe with all my heart that every human being has some little reason for being thankful to God at this Thanksgiving season.

If you made this day a little easier for some troubled person, you have great cause for Thanksgiving. You served a divine purpose in helping that individual. That simple act will return to you very soon as a ten-fold blessing.

Be deeply thankful even though you did not get those new shoes. Remember--there are some who have no feet.

Be deeply thankful though you were unable to get that new house. There are some in Viet Nam, and India, who will sleep on the ground tonight.

FINALLY, MY thoughts at Thanksgiving go to many families who will reassemble to enjoy a fine dinner together. While you are planning these festivities, why not show your thanks by inviting some lonely, less fortunate person to your table. Maybe a soldier, or a poverty-stricken person who simply needs a hot meal.

Take careful inventory of your many blessings and remember the words of the Psalmist, "Let us come before His presence with Thanksgiving and make a joyful noise unto Him with Psalms." "Happy Thanksgiving."

Pre-Thanksgiving Cocktail Party

ANY PARTY HOSTED by Ray and Dorothy Johnson (She is the VOICE Food and Homemaking Editor) is sure to be a winner... Friday evening's festive affair was no exception when the managers of Clark County School District's Cafeterias were guests of the Johnsons... In photo left, Mrs. Shirley Winslow, Mrs. Johnson, Odie Harris of the Las Vegas Fire Department, Mrs. Kay Anderson, Jeanette Hickuelooper, and Johnson, who is with the Village Bakery that services the Cafeterias are seen... Photo right, guests are sampling the famed Johnson Buffet Table.
