COLONEL FRANK'S LIL THEATER

IF YOU DON'T know who Colonel Frank is you either do not have children or you don't own a television, because it is impossible to have both and not be hipped to Colonel Frank.

Ask anyone whose judgment you trust about children and he (or she, as the case may be) will tell you that there is no better media for instilling the basic necessary knowledge for distinguishing right from wrong--good from evil--than a Children's Theatre program.

Colonel Frank has provided this for all the children of the metropolitan Las Vegas Area. As was reported in the VOICE, the Theatre is located in Commercial Center on East Sahara Blvd., and provides live stage shows, cartoon carnivals, refreshments, games--everything that delights the young in heart which covers a very wide age group.

A RECENT and welcome innovation at Colonel Franks LIL THEATRE is the service of catering birthday parties for the kids...Talk about "Where have you been so long"--This, as any parent will testify, is a far more welcome treat than any flapjack syrup. Think of it. You can invite your child's guests to a birthday party at Colonel Frank's Lil Theatre, where they will be entertained in a private party room--served soft drinks and dairy products--enjoy the really beautiful and delicious birthday cake provided--be entertained with cartoons--thrill at the 'on the house' birthday gift provided for the honoree, and it only costs the parents $2 a child.

The VOICE is so enthused over the Lil Theatre and its over-all value to youngsters that the newspaper breaks tradition by injecting personal feelings to the extent of a suggestion that community, fraternal, and social organi- (See COL. FRANK, page 11)
