GULF HONORS PUBLISHERS--Frank L. Stanley, Sr., Publisher of the Louisville Defender, and John H. Sengstacke, President of Sengstacke Publications, received plaques from the Gulf Oil Corporation at a dinner sponsored by Gulf during the National Newspaper Publishers Association convention in Cleveland. Roy Wilkins, Executive Director of the NAACP, was speaker at the banquet. Shown here are Daniel G. Kean, Gulf Public Relations; R. F. Edgar, Sales Administrator for Gulf's Midwestern Marketing Region; Mr. Sengstacke; Mr. Wilkins; Roy E. Kohler, Manager, Special Projects, Gulf Public Relations; and Mr. Stanley. Mr. Sengstacke's award recognized his leadership in the field of publishing through his many newspapers; Mr. Stanley's, his leadership as President of the NNPA. Following the banquet, the Walt Harper Quintet of Pittsburgh played for dancing at a party also hosted by Gulf Oil.

BIGOTED CHRISTIANS

CINCINNATI - (NPI)--Nearly 20 white parishioners at St. Martin RC church last week, walked out on the Rev. Hilaire Valiquette, during his sermon on racial justice. The walkout came as the 29-year-old clergyman was carrying out instructions from Archbishop Karl J. Alter for all priests in the diocese to preach on racial justice and harmony, in line with President Johnson's appeal for a day of prayer as a means of ending racial strife.
