Selfish Approach By Whites Offered As Solution

JAMAICA, N.Y. (NPI)--A local resident who is a veteran of the civil rights movement, last week advocated that white Americans adopt a new approach to solving problems of the Negro which he calls a concept of "Self-Interest Not Stupidity."

Peter Saltz, an active leader of the Jamaica NAACP branch for 15 years, said in putting forth his concept, that "white people must learn to think and believe that every extra dollar, every educational enrichment, every advancement by black people benefits rather than harms white people.

"America does not need a professional or political do-gooder approach to the black man, however well-intentioned," he declared. "Neither does America need a number of clergymen preaching to an indifferent congregation about equality, fairness and brotherhood of man."

needs the really selfish approach that the life of each white American will be better materially in dollars and goods, in comfort and safety, if the black citizenry gets its fair share of the gross national product.

Support for Saltz's proposal was voiced by W. Eugene Sharpe, Jamaica NAACP president, who pointed out that more than 50 years ago white persons helped to organize the NAACP. In return, he felt that, Negro men and women would offer modest financial aid, legal talent and administrative help to white persons who desire to organize themselves under the SNS concept.

Saltz, currently a vice-president of the Jamaica NAACP chapter and a Wall Street broker, has been a member of the executive board for 15 years and an officer for seven. He was the originator of the national campaign against Mississippi bonds in 1964 and 1965.
