

FIELD TRIP ALSO A BRIDGE OF COMMUNICATION

A field trip, recently, was the setting for an exchange of ideas and pleasure for Loyal Robinson's class from Bertha Ronzone Elementary, and Mr. Steven Schiebel's class of fifth graders from Matt Kelly Elementary School.

The classes as a group, visited the Lost City Museum and various aspects in the Valley of Fire. The classes engaged in a knowledge hunt for the answers to questions concerning the ancient peoples who lived in the Lost City Museum area.

The high point and emphasis of the entire trip was the aspect that the outing was an integrated excursion.

The teachers reported the most rewarding and important lessons were learned in route to our destination and back, in the form of meeting and making new friends.

Mr. Robinson and Mr. Schiebel were very satisfied and pleased with the experiment and hope to repeat and expand this idea.

THE COLLEGE STUDENT SPEAKS

By DORIS BROWN
NEGRO PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Students going to college under the auspices of the National Scholarship Service and Fund for Negro Students are showing increasingly high scholastic achievement, despite backgrounds of poverty and broken homes.

According to spokesmen for the 19-year-old service, the median family income of the freshmen it is sending to college is less than $4,000 a year.

Some 35 per cent of the 3,800 freshmen come from broken homes; many others, from families requiring public assistance.

DESPITE THESE handicaps, 40 per cent were in the top 10 per cent of their high school classes. Almost 60 per cent had A or B averages.

According to Richard L. Plaut, the New York-based service's president, NSSFNS has tripled the number of students counseled and the amount of finances secured during the last three years.

The number of direct scholarship awards to students entering integrated colleges and universities has been doubled during that time, he added.

Yellow Springs, Ohio--Students and faculty from three mainland colleges have launched a "beachhead campus" on a Hawaiian island, to test whether they can learn more from working on specific problems than from pencil-and-paper exercises.

Seeking to enrich the quality of life on Kauai, the most remote and unspoiled of the Hawaiian Islands, are 17 students from Antioch College, Yellow Springs; Vermont's Goddard College; and Maine's Nasson College.

The students will try to develop and demonstrate ways of enriching the island's plantation economy and its social and educational systems.

But they'll disband, it was joked, as soon as their "disposable college" becomes large enough to require a dean.

DURHAM, N.C.--North Carolina College's scholarship fund drive, which will end Nov. 30, has brought in more than $65,000.

The drive will establish a renewable scholarship program offering five $1,000 scholarships each year, beginning in 1968-69 and continuing through 1973-74.

Northwestern University Beige Homecoming Queen

EVANSTON, Ill. - (NPI)--Miss Daphne Maxwell, 19, a well-built Northwestern University sophomore, has broken the color line by being named the Institution's 1967-68 homecoming queen.

Northwestern lost its homecoming game to Ohio State, 6-0, but the pert "queen-for-a-year" turned out to be a winner.

A major in interior design, she would like some day to become a fashion designer. She is making a good start in her intended direction by fashioning most of her own clothes. Her own designs were recently on display in a recent issue of Seventeen magazine.

A graduate of the Bronx High School of Science, the pert queen likes jazz and "other kinds of music, too."

Another young woman who recently became a university queen is Miss Sylvia Easterling, who was proclaimed Miss Tennessee State for 1967-68.

Miss Easterling, a senior speech and drama major from Clarksdale (Miss.), is a member of the Tennessee State Players Guild.
