NEW WOES FOR CLAY START

Boley, Okla. --The proposed January 12th Cassius Clay-Billy Joiner heavyweight fight in Boley, Oklahoma will not become a reality. Opposition to Clay, and holding such a fight in nearby all-Negro Boley, met deep and widespread opposition. Civic and veteran groups were said to be the chief dissenters.

Tulsa businessman and rancher, Gene Hopkins, was to have held the match at his Maverick Ranch and Sports Arena with the Tulsa Association for Retarded Children due to benefit, principally, from the fight's proceeds. Fights involving Clay and Ellis, and Clay vs Joe Frazier were to follow.

Former Chicago night club owner Herman Roberts was to act as promoter for all the fights. The dissenters contended the Association would not receive enough of the receipts to make the fight attractive.

The Child group was believed in for $37,500 of the total estimated gate.

ESADO, a company established, to set up and train, and hire black and white hardcore persons was listed for ten percent of the proceeds.

It seems rather doubtful if Clay will be given any opportunity to take part in boxing, while he is youthful and able to give a worthy account of himself. His troubles stem from his failure to accept induction into the Armed services.
