

LIBRARY NOTES

Anybody can learn to do anything, or so it would seem after looking over the dozens of "how-to-do-it" books available at the North Las Vegas Library. There are over 400 cards in the catalog beginning with the magic words "hotto", and each card represents a book on the library's shelves.

Books on how to lose weight, earn money, live with a snake, tempt a fish, install plumbing, get a job, get along with children and avoid marriage, are listed along with how-to-do-it books for the hobbyists, sportsman, businessman, politician and homemaker.

One of the most interesting is "How to Become a Legend in Your Own Lifetime," by Gene Schinto and Jules Bacal. This very short book is a delightful new concept in self help. With chapter headings like "How to achieve absolute power in business whether or not you are presently employed," "How to be the perfect host and drink everyone under the table," "How to develop a magnificent body and the face to go with it," and "How to own and display every status symbol known to man." The authors claim if you are not sufficiently happy, rich or famous, this book will do much to help you achieve the ultimate -- I agree.
