

DIANA ROSS

Her single "Ain't No Mountain High Enough" is the number one record in the country, according to Billboard Magazine, which is the bible of the Music Industry.

Following her first appearance in the Empire Room of New York City's famed Waldorf Astoria Hotel, she became their number ONE attraction after breaking every existing attendance record. Business was so great that on her closing night the hotel was forced to turn away more than 500 of her worshippers.

She is the number ONE attraction at the Frontier Hotel in Las Vegas, Nevada where she is headlining in the Music Hall and currently breaking her own attendance record.

Still wonder who she is? - if so, add all the above up and you can only come up with one answer - Diana Ross - Motown's super-star, who within the last several months has become a legend within her lifetime.

Diana Ross is living proof if the lyrics from her hit, "Ain't No Mountain High Enough" if one has the desire to climb from the gettos to the top of the ladder.

It has been said that Miss Ross's vocal talent, though she has never had formal training, coupled with her commanding stage presence and svelte appearance makes her an instant favorite with audiences wherever she appears.

Cannon Charges Top G.O.P. Out To Brainwash Voters

Senator Howard Cannon lashed out Saturday "at the massive invasion of Nevada by Republican Administration outsiders from Washington bent on brainwashing the electorate of this state."

Cannon said the effort which included most of President Nixon's cabinet is "unprecedented in Nevada political history and it is doomed to defeat."

Speaking at a gathering of his supporters last night, Cannon declared, "It is a measure of the administration's fear of GOP candidate weakness at almost every level of state government that has lead the opposition to begin and now escalate an assault by Republican national heavyweights on the voters of Nevada."

"This bureaucratic brainwashing mission to our state," Cannon warned, "promises a dark future for Nevada and for America. Cabinet members," he pointed out, "instead of solving the problems of housing, unemployment and civil unrest, are coming out here in numbers that set new records for the lengths to which the administration will go to impose their influence and direct the state's elections from Washington."

Obviously angered by the "purge" attempt, Cannon declared, "We have shipped to us more Republican beef per Nevada voter than we can stomach. This would be funny if it were not so serious an attempt to subvert the Democratic process at the grass roots level through brainwashing."

Cannon asked rhetorically, "What is the meaning of this influx of Republican power, if it is not the end of states rights' and the beginning of an era in which Big Brother calls the shots from Washington. The Administration," he said, "has lost all reason, all restraint. Power feeds on power. If the administration gets away with this massive power play it will be a sad day for our state and our country."

Cannon named the "steady flow of high ranking bureaucrats into Nevada. "First it was the Presidents Communications Director Herb Klein. Then George Romney, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development. Vice President Spiro Agnew topped the Romney act to be followed in turn by Treasury Secretary David Kennedy, U. N. Ambassador Shirley Temple Black, Congressional Campaign Chairman John Tower.

"Now we understand Secretary of the Interior Walter Hickle is on his way to Nevada and he will be followed by Robert Finch, erstwhile Secretary of Health Education and Welfare now turned presidential assistant.

"Waiting in the wings," Cannon said, "are Mrs. Pat Nixon and even the President himself whose visits to beleaguered Nevada voters are promised in the next week before election day. When he arrives," the senator said, "I suggest he visits the unemployment offices here. That is where he will find the biggest crowds in town these days."
