EMPLOYMENT SECURITY NEWS

CARSON CITY--Jobholders numbered 249,500 in June to set an all-time high for employment in Nevada.

The Nevada Employment Security Department said the record employment was reached with 5,800 more wage earners in June than in May. The tourism-dependent service industry logged the highest gain with 3,700 new paychecks in June.

Department Director Robert Archie said, "Employment is only one of many economic indicators, but this state's record employment shows Nevada's economy is definitely on the upturn."

Nevada's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate for June dropped to 6.5 percent. It was 6.8 percent in May and also a year ago last June.

None of the state's eight major employment sectors lost jobs in June. Six industries showed job gains and two remained at the previous month's (May) level.

In addition to the 3,700 new jobs in the service industry, trade issued 900 new and public utilities, mining and finance, insurance and real estate.

Construction and government payrolls remained the same from May through June. June historically is a high-jobless month because of the thousands of new, young job-seekers during school vacation.

Summertime jobseekers were a factor in hiking jobless rolls to 18,300 in June, compared to 17,300 the previous month (May).

The department said the seasonally adjusted unemployment rate in Clark County dipped to 7.2 percent for June, compared to 7.3 percent in May. Washoe County's rate for June was 5.8 percent, the same as in May.
