

Dotti's Doin's

BY DOTTI ALLEN

Why it iz' when the brothers and sisters frequent certain public places the white faces seem to disappear? One place in particular, Fantasy Park, located on Washington and Las Vegas Blvd North. Could it be they just don't want to associate with po' bro' and sis, or could it be they couldn't take the stench and filth of the out house type restrooms with no doors, or lessee maybe it was the little concrete circle (broken glass garden) that never seems to be in the line of the brooms when sweeping time rolls around, maybe once a year. This week tho I did notice the pad locks were off the out houses and the bushes could be watered once again by the sprinklers and not the po' people in distress. Wonder how the Southside facilities are? Dotti's goin' to have to check it out.

The rage that's sweepin Las Vegas, if you have noticed... "Hi I'm John," old folks are sayin' it young folks are saying, it, and even the little tots are sayin' it. JOHN, is really into something. I dropped in on him at the Grand Opening of the new store at 2071 Las Vegas Blvd North, and po' JOHN was so busy he could hardly find time to sit a second and chat with DOTTI. JOHN, has loads of beautiful name brand furniture at veree reasonable prices that would compliment any home. Check it out.

I remember last summer when the kids in North Las Vegas had only two mud holes for rec. facilities, and leaders of a youth promotional organization asked the kind owner of a big ole' empty building on Pecos and Gowan next to the 7-11 store, to donate or rent the building to the group for an activity center for the kids, replied "sure for $40,000. Well gess what? The big ole' empty building burned last week and the kind owner has no building and no $40,000. Seems business and property owners in their stages of greed close their ears to the pleas of the youngsters when they extend a pleading hand for help, but are the first to cry out that the po' law enforcement agencies aren't on their jobs when these pre-occupied youngsters can find nothing better to do than vandalize their rotting buildings... Think about it.

The Band of Gypsies did it Thursday nite at the Service Club. They did a little soulin' a little jazzin' and a little bluesin'. You really missed out if you weren't there.

I wonder why the SUN built homes over by Cashman Jr. High School are so noticeably different (better constructed) than the ones up on Miller hill and Donna Street, the latter mentioned give the effect, with the flaking paint, of syrup and frosted flakes poured on a big cardboard box.

OPEN COLLEGE

College can be started at any time, any day or any week, with a new program of individualized classes at Clark County Community College. Registration for these classes, called the "Open College," is continuous and can be completed each week Monday through Friday, with course work beginning the same day if the student desires.

Dr. R. Stephen Nicholson, the college's chief administrator, said these open college classes increase the community college's ability to serve students at the exact time they seek educational opportunity.

"We are not fully meeting our objectives if we ask students to wait several weeks or months between the time they seek continuing education and the time we register for regular semesters," he said.

"Hopefully, the approach we establish with these new classes will be expanded into open and continuous enrollment for all community college classes."

Nicholson noted that the open college concept reduces at least two traditional barriers facing college students, rigid semester scheduling and lock-step instruction.

"With these classes, students can register (See Community College page 9)

I just had to tell my readers what DOTTI did this time...tried to make a human torch of myself Sunday, at the park. If you are barb-queing, and using the liquid fire starter make sure you use it only on cold coals. Po' DOTTI, thought the coals were all gone out but they weren't so I grabbed the can and gave a generous squirt, and gess what, I be bein' minus some hair, some eyelashes, and some eyebrows. Please don't make the same mistake I did - take precautions.

That's all ya'll see you next week.
