ON-THE-JOB TRAINING COMPLETED -- Jimmy Newman, left, Vice President and Casino Manager at the Las Vegas Hilton, congratulates John Burton, center, and Ivory Phillips following completion of their on-the-job training program at the Hilton to become full-time craps dealers. The special training program has been in effect at the Hilton, and at its sister hotel, the Flamingo Hilton, for the past 20 months as part of the hotels' compliance with the federal consent decree. To date, some 40 employees have completed the Las Vegas Hilton's casino training course and another 15 have gone through the keno training program, making the Hilton one of Las Vegas' leading hotels in this vital area. The on-the-job training programs were established to enable Hilton employees to train for better jobs at the hotel while maintaining their regular duties and pay. The craps program requires a full 12 months training while blackjack requires approximately four months and keno some three months. Burton, a former busboy, Phillips, a porter, completed their 12-month craps training program in just over 10 months.
