CHANEY IN ASSEMBLY RACE

West Las Vegas residents have special needs, interests, and commitments to their locale, and should have the same qualities in their representative to the Nevada State Assembly, Lonnie Chaney said today.

Accordingly, he filed for an Assembly seat to represent District No. 7.

Chaney cited the need for an extension of the Nevada State Prison in Southern Nevada where area residents can visit family and friends incarcerated with relative ease.

He advocates a work release program, which allows the inmate to join the community during normal working hours for job experience and greater understanding in coping with vocational problems, while returning to the prison to sleep at night.

On other issues, he says he feel senior citizens are a must for a tax cut, that they are already overburdened with having to keep pace with a spiraling economy and a fixed, and very limited, budget. "They need help with their medical bills, with housing, and with employment."

Inflation hasn't just hit seniors, however, families on welfare are also feeling the pinch and Chaney suggest the benefits be raised to meet the needs. "A mother with three children and $200.00 a month to live on isn't going to be able to provide very stable nutrition for those children when inflation has risen 12 per cent in the last year alone."

The 39-year-old Las Vegas pledges to seek additional funds for the development of mental and rehabilitation programs, to work for fiscally expanding the Community College, to upgrade parks and provide better recreation facilities, and to secure more state supported employment for youths during the summer months.

He also advocates stronger ties with the West Las Vegas community, and intermittent polling to ascertain community posture on current issues.

Chaney is a 20-year resident of Las Vegas. A democrat, he is president of the Sunrise Travel Club and is active in the religious community in the Pilgrim Rest Baptist Church.

He is a seven year member and past president of the American Singers Association. Chaney served with the U.S. Army from 1958 to 1960.
