

POLICE BLOTTER

Elbert Taylor, 1109 Freeman, was treated at Southern Nevada Memorial Hospital, for gunshot wounds in the chest and in the back. Taylor refused to give the officers any information on who shot him or the location where he was shot. Two witnesses observed the victim walking along the fence near their home - when he turned the corner he began to stagger as he approached their driveway. When they came out of the house to inquire about his condition, he collapsed in the driveway.

An ambulance was called - the Metro Police responding to the call found the ambulance attendants treating the victim.

THE ROLE OF MABEL HOGGARD JESSIE JACKSON ASSESSED BY BLACK ENTERPRISE MAGAZINE DAY

Thursday, September 19th was Mabel Hoggard Day, when the (former Bonanza Elementary School) was named in her honor.

Students of Mabel Hoggard dedicated two assemblies in her honor expressing their gratitude for her untiring efforts in behalf of all children and to let her know they felt proud and honored to attend a school named after her.

Mrs. Hoggard was the first black educator to be hired by the Clark County School District 28 years ago.

Since her retirement in 1970, Mrs. Hoggard has not given up the fight for improved education for our children. The school lunch program now in operation, was but one of her successful fights. Her determination to see that all students in Clark County school would have the opportunity to have a meal in school, led her to get the support of others to help the cause.

Mabel Hoggards untiring efforts on behalf of quality education - could not be rewarded in any better way than having a elementary school bear her name.

The Hoggard family presented the school a portrait of Mrs. Hoggard to hand in the office.

The whole community is proud that another of our own has been honored by having a school named after them.

Who is the most powerful black man in America today? His admirers say Reverend Jessie Jackson, while his critics claim he makes promises he can't keep. For a realistic appraisal of Reverend Jackson and Operation PUSH, Black Enterprise Magazine in its October issue examines the goals and mechanics of PUSH, its leader, and the effectiveness of the much publicized "covenants" which PUSH has entered into with several major corporations.

Has Operation PUSH increased the economic rights of black Americans? Does Jackson leap from issue to issue? Is the success of PUSH based solely on Reverend Jackson? These are just a few of the questions explored by Black Enterprise Magazine.

Multi Million in World Wide Law Suits Filed Against Police

The Church of Scientology's Commission on Law Enforcement and Social Justice has released the first results of an international investigation into illegal use of Police forces, by what they term "vestal interest groups, using and circulating false police records and dossiers on groups and individuals." The investigation has led to the Church of Scientology initiating 18 law suits against police agencies for circulating what they term "completely falsified and inaccurate police reports on our very own church."

Rev. Vaughn Young National Director of the Commission for the U.S. stated, "we have initiated suit against; the German Federal Police Interpol (The International Criminal Police Organization), the head of Scotland Yard, the German Better Business Bureau, and various individuals and agencies connected to the circulation and distribution of a false report on the Church. These agencies are being sued by various Churches around the world, in L.A., Washington, D. C., New York, Toronto, England, Denmark and Germany. Our own personal experience with this only indicated that the practice of false police records must be widespread. We have now taken the issue to the public. Local commissions are forming throughout the United States collecting information from citizens who have been victimized by false police records. We want the people to know that they no longer have to feel afraid or apathetic about trying to correct a false police record."

The National Commission on Law Enforcement and Social Justice, has been running ads nationwide, requesting information from citizens who have been victimized by false police records, or been the effect of vested interest groups using police records to discredit them.

According to Young, "testimonies are coming in daily across the country from citizens who have not been able to correct their police records. We are now in the process of verifying each case, and soon will be releasing the data. This practice is more widespread than we had imagined."

Young explained the background of the Churches law suits, "The Church in demanding reform of current inhuman psychiatric abuses, launched an attack on the Max Planck Institute ( the former Kaiser Wilhelm Institute of the Nazi's), through our news Journal Freedom. During this attack the police at the request of the Max Planck Institution, asked for confidential information on the Church from Scotland Yard by way of INTERPOL. False information was fed back through INTERPOL to the psychiatric institute and others. We first became aware of the report when a reporter in Munich showed it to a Church official there. To correct the information the church sent packs of documentation, and a request to correct the report. When the police ignored these requests we filed suit."

"The tactics of using 'official police reports' to discredit and smear opponents is not new," he added. "It was brought to perfection by Heinrich Himmler former head of the German police. (Himmler took control of Interpol in 1938 and moved it to Berlin).

"We recently have formed an entire section of the Commission to investigate Interpol. Interpol is under no Sovereign power and has complete freedom to circulate reports internationally on citizens and groups with no external supervision of its accuracy. International crime,
