THE VECTER MATTER

REPORT CHANGES

People should promptly report changes in circumstances that could affect their supplemental secutivy income payments and should not wait to hear from social security, according to Ed Cocks, social security district manager in Las Vegas.

The supplemental security income program makes monthly payments to people with limited resources who are 65 or over or blind or disabled. Eligibility and monthly payments amounts can be affected changes in income, living arrangements, marital status, and other circumstances.

"To get the right supplemental security income checks to the right people on time," Cocks said, "the Social Security Administration contacts periodically people getting payments to review their eligibility and monthly payment amounts.

People have 30 days to report changes that affect their supplemental security income payments. Failure to report changes-or delay in reporting-can mean penalty reductions in payments.
