Dionne Warwick in hour show

Miss Dionne Warwick is joined by a host of superstars when she is spotlighted in her hour-long Special, "Monsanto Night Presents Dionne Warwick," airing nationally during the week of April 7, 1975.

Taped on location at scenic Lake Tahoe, a popular winter and summer resort straddling the California-Nevada stateline, the show features Special Guest Star Wayne Newton. Also making cameo guest star appearances are none other than "Ol' Blue Eyes," Frank Sinatra; Danny Thomas; motion picture and television stars Christopher and Lynda Day George, and "Mission Impossible" TV star Greg Morris.

Newton flew in from his SRO stand in Las Vegas to join Dionne for what he describes as his most unusual duet.

"You might say we both went to the dogs," Newton laughs.

The song was "You Are The Sunshine of My Life," which was performed on a racing dogsled, to the accompanying yelps of a team of Alaskan Huskies.

MISS NATIONAL TEEN-AGER

"THE JUICE" SINGS

FOR THE FIRST TIME, O. J. SIMPSON SINGS! The All-Pro and Superstar of the Year makes his TV singing debut with Mac Davis on the Mac Davis Show, Thursday, April 3, on NBC-TV at 9:00 P. M. (PT). O. J. and Mac team up on "Anything You Can Do," and in some comedy sketches. In one funny sketch, O.J. portrays an athlete doing TV commercials for various products. Before his singing debut, O. J. contended he only sang in the shower. If so, he had deprived his audience of a good thing and viewers can attest to that April 3 on the Mac Davis Show.
