$548,600 From B.L.M. Receipts

The Bureau of Land Management (BLM) recently turned over $548,600 to the Nevada State treasurer as the state's share of BLM mineral, grazing and public land sale receipts.

BLM State Director Ed Rowland said the amount is $115,800 more than paid last year at this time, or about a 27% increase. The amount includes a percentage of mineral leasing revenues from January through June 1976 and percentages of grazing and public land sale receipts for all of 1976.

Rowland said this payment is one of two made each year to the state's coffers. The other is for the state's share (35.5%) of mineral leasing revenues for July through December. Last year the total of the two payments was $950,000.

Roadside Obstacle Elimination Month

CARSON CITY - August is Roadside Obstacle Elimination Month in the Bicentennial Traffic Safety Year, according to the Nevada Office of Traffic Safety (OTS).

Gov. Mike O'Callaghan recently proclaimed 1976 as Nevada Bicentennial Traffic Safety Year.

The OTS works with the Nevada Highway Department in developing safe roadside environments for motorists.

Plans for widening U.S. 395 at Washoe Hill are now in the design stage at an estimated cost of $800,000.

Highway Engineer William J. Hoffman said efforts are conducted on a continuing basis to improve existing roadways as well as develop the latest safety features in all new construction projects.

Nevada was one of the first states in the nation to design, test, and place breakaway signs on its highways. The signs collapse upon impact and reduce the severity of damage to the vehicle or injury to its occupants.
