

"D" STREET OCTOBER

Elmer R. Rusco
Box 8947 University Station
Reno, Nevada 89507

Saturday, Oct. 23 is the day, and the corner of "D" and Jackson Street is the place. What's happening? The second annual "D" Street Festival is happening, with lots of big band music, jazz, soul, dancing, arts and crafts, food and fun for all.

For two months the Festival committee has been meeting each week to plan the annual event, to insure that this year's festival will be even bigger and better than last year's. And bigger and better it will be, according to Bill Ludwig, Director of the West Las Vegas Library.

The Musician's Union Local #369 has agreed to supply a 19 piece band with a vocalist, under the direction of Bob Hammer, along with the Calvin "Eagle Eye" Shields' Combo. Interspersed between these presentations will be a number of musical acts, including stars and groups appearing at different clubs and shows around the city, local dance and singing groups, announcers and disc jockeys from our radio and tv stations, and a series of talent acts from the community.

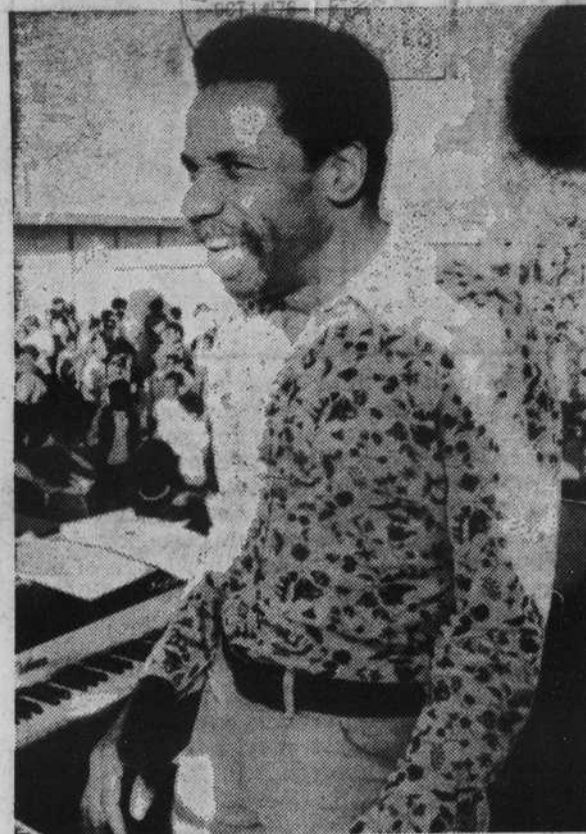

As a community sponsored event the "D" St. Festival planning has involved a great number of individuals, organizations and businesses from all over the Westside and throughout the city. Many of these Westside groups will be participating in the festival with booths exhibiting their products and services. There will be arts and crafts and food and good rappin' up and down the street. There will be something to interest everyone. A special section of reserved seats will be made available for senior citizens.

In addition to the Saturday afternoon Festival, program of guest speakers will be presented at the West Las Vegas Library Friday evening at 7:30. Mr. Ben Hazard, Curator of Special Exhibits and Education at the Oakland Museum, Oakland, Calif., will be the featured speaker. He will offer a slide presentation on "Black Expression in Art and Festival." Assisting him on a panel will be Monk Montgomery, President of the Las Vegas Jazz Society, Beni Casselle, nationally known artist residing in Las Vegas, and Melvin Carter, student and writer attending UNLV. Moderating the program will be Lee Winston of Channel 10. This Friday evening program has been made possible by a grant from the Nevada Humanities Committee and is free to the public.

With slides and ideas and conversation Friday evening at the Library and music and art and food Saturday afternoon at the street festival, and with all the activities planned by clubs in the Westside throughout the weekend, this event is expected to be a great success. Everyone from everywhere is invited to enjoy the fruits of the Westside community.

District Judge Adde liar "Dell" Guy has proven himself to be one of the hardest working judges in Clark County history.

His record of selfless dedication, compassion and sternness has won him the growing support of all of Clark County -- black and white alike.

Since his appointment by Gov. Mike O'Callaghan to the district court bench, Judge Guy has conducted himself with honor and integrity while working long hours as our Juvenile Court judge.

Overwhelmingly endorsed by a crushing primary election victory over three opponents, Judge Guy ran some 10,000 votes ahead of his nearest rival.

But now is not the time to sit back and assume that Judge Guy does not need our help, and the help of every thinking Nevadan who cherishes equal justice.

Our support should not stop merely with our votes; we should put up signs, place a sticker on the bumper of our cars, contribute a few dollars -- remember, it is not inexpensive to mount a good campaign against desperate and well-financed sources who might want to see a fine judge turned out.

One of our greatest concerns involve juvenile crime, foster homes and foster parents.

We are very fortunate to have Judge Adde liar Guy as our Juvenile Court Judge.

Lets turn out 100 percent to make sure we keep him.

Lawrence Albert, publisher of the Las Vegas Voice has not become a puppet, dangling, jumping, twisting at the end of some one else's string.

News releases have been printed for every candidate that has brought them in to the Voice or has asked for help and support of the Voice.

Rev. Bennett, Lonnie Chaney and Bob Bailey passed the Voice by during the election campaign - by not only not advertising but by the mere fact that they did not bring in news releases for publication.

Bob Palm of RIGHT ON fame has worked for Lawrence Albert and the Voice - he should know that Mr. Albert is a man of his own and a man dedicated to the complete support of his community and his newspaper.

Lawrence Albert will be happy to meet any question face to face and back up his beliefs with a strong hand.
