A REVENUE-SHARING BILL

WASHINGTON - A revenue-sharing bill that would provide $16,710,555 for Nevada in fiscal year 1977 is nearing Senate approval, Senator Howard Cannon has announced.

"Since its creation in 1972 revenue sharing has helped to relieve the fiscal problems of hard-pressed local governments in Nevada and all over the United States," Cannon said in support of the program extension.

"I think it would be fair to credit revenue sharing with providing means by which local governments survived the recent recession without decimating their principal base of support - the homeowner - through crippling property tax increases.

"In returning control and administration of the money to State and local governments, revenue sharing is also a welcome departure from the all to common consolidation of everything in Washington that we have seen in recent years.

"The revenue sharing concept is a proper move in the right direction that recognizes the role of each level of government as a responsible partner in our Federal system. It has done much to return the decision making for dealing with local problems to local elected officials where it should be," Cannon said.

Music teacher does it quad

Booker T. Gibson is one of the most popular teachers in his Valley Stream South High School (Valley Stream, New York). Since he doesn't teach mathematics or science, Gibson was automatically a good choice for an entry into any popularity contest, real or imagined. But even in years of teaching a subject like music appreciation, always a favorite in our music conscious society, many teachers fail to win the kind of devotion and interest that Booker T. Gibson gets from his students.

Gibson, 45, who has been teaching music appreciation at the school for twenty-one years, has a unique teaching tool that has won him the support of students, parents and fellow teachers. He has turned his music appreciation classes on to the wonders of quadrasonic sound and not only increased their understanding of the music but has increased the musical sophistication of his seventh and eighth grade classes, most of whom are at the age when they really begin to be conscious of high fidelity.

Gibson states: "One of my most successful projects, year after year, is opera. The kids love certain operas, 'La Boheme,' 'Aida,' and 'Madame Butterfly.' Even in the symphonies they have particular favorites, Mozart, Beethoven and Brahms, and I hope someday to introduce Mahler. It will be easier with quad!"

missing va checks

Many veterans retired from military service and paying premiums for U.S. Government Life Insurance (USGLI) or National Service Life Insurance (NSLI) from monthly retirement checks may be missing annual dividend checks, the VA reported today.

The VA insurance center at Philadelphia reported there are several thousand military retirees who each month pay insurance premiums by allotment from their retired pay.

In some cases the monthly deduction becomes so routine the veterans fails to notify the VA when there is a change of address. This is particularly true, a spokesman said, when a retiree's check is sent to a banking institution.

Annual dividends paid on USGLI and NSLI policies often result in some checks being returned to the VA for lack of a current address, the spokesman said.

Military retirees paying their GI insurance premiums by allotment should send changes of address, with policy number to the VA Center, P.O. Box 8079, Philadelphia, Pa. 19101.
