

JIM APPLING, owner and president of Commercial Building Maintenance Inc., of Charlotte, North Carolina, started work at age five on his father's farm, sharecropping. Today his company is one of the South's fastest growing black maintenance firms. He stands in front of the Exxon Region Office in Charlotte, his newest corporate account.

TOPPER CAREW NAMED WGBH'S PROGRAM Manager -- Boston's public television outlet, has announced the creation of an important new position -- program manager of multi-cultural projects. Filling that position (the only one of its kind at any PBS station) will be Topper Carew, who, in becoming one of WGBH's four program managers, also becomes one of the highest ranking minority persons in public TV. Carew joined WGBH in 1973 as producer/host of "Say Brother," a magazine series by, for and about the black community that this fall begins its seventh season with a new emphasis on Third World communities.

Something to remember you by!

What kind of tracks do you want to leave during your lifetime? Big, bold marks detailing a life of useful, honest service and accomplishment? Or fingerprints taken during the time you were arrested for shoplifting? In Nevada shoplifting is stealing, a serious crime. Think about it. It can cost you up to $250 plus attorney and court costs, plus cost of item stolen plus a police record you'd just as soon forget. Don't risk a shoplifting record as something to remember you by.

SHOPLIFTING IN NEVADA IS A HANDFUL OF TROUBLE
