Southern California Edison is offering career opportunities at its Mohave Generating Station located in Southern Nevada, 90 miles South of Las Vegas.

The typical duties of a laborer consist of general plant maintenance, steam cleaning machinery and grounds maintenance with career progression into higher level maintenance or operations of the plant.

Apprentice Plant Equipment Operators enter a training program to learn the operation of a steam-electric generating plant, including studies in physics, chemistry, and basic electricity. Following the training, these individuals generally progress into higher level classifications in plant operations which require working rotating shifts.

All applicants must have a valid driver's license and a good driving record. They will also be required to pass one or more pre-employment aptitude tests. Edison Employment Representatives will be taking applications at the following locations:

RUBY SAYS

For eight years, the poor women of this community have been banded together to help provide a better life for themselves, their children, and others like them. All colors and creeds have been working to the same end - to provide the basic necessities of life and to provide an alternative to the welfare cycle that they have endured.

They have worked hard to bring service programs to Nevada that the State did not want them. They struggled to urge the State to bring in food stamps, they fought for health care, and for food services, jobs, economic development. And they were successful.

They operated their own health clinic on Jackson Street to provide early periodic screening -- they provided the WIC program to give pregnant and nursing mothers and their children under 5 high nutritious foods so they would be healthier. Did you know that the Women of Operation Life wrote the State plan for the WIC program?? That was because Nevada was the only state that did not plan to participate in this 100% federally financed program. Against all odds in a City of odds, we were told we could not do it. But we were positively operating against the odds.

Well, the State could not handle that. They have proceeded to take the Early Screening program from the women who brought it to the community and who MADE SURE THAT PEOPLE WERE RECEIVING ADEQUATE HEALTH CARE. Now the State and the men at the top are working again to see that the women of Operation Life are totally without the programs they want so desperately for their community.

They have hired a brave and retired service man who receives two salaries. One from the Federal government as retirement pay and one from the State of Nevada. Plenty huh? And this to tell poor women that they don't understand theitty gritty. He feels that Operation Life's biggest problems is that they care about the people they are serving. Well, this man is not brave enough and strong enough to stand up against the real power hungry politicians that are after Operation Life. His name is Ron Lange, he works for the Nevada State Health Department in Carson City, and he has about as much feeling for poor people and social programs as a hungry rattlesnake that's curled and ready for attack. As nonpolitical State jobs are supposed to be, he is thriving in the wrong business.

Yes, the State is after the WIC program now. The men working for the State who are making big salaries playing fun and games - and they are political. Next week I'll say more. When they first took the Early Screening Program, I wasn't sure what they were really after, but things are getting clearer and clearer, and I'll be letting you know just what's in the works for poor Las Vegas, Operation Life and the next major political election.

Thanks to Assemblyman Lonnie Chaney who stood up in opposition to AB 89 of the Nevada State Legislature. The bill would penalize welfare women who get married and severely hurt their families. For instance, if a woman gets married or if she just decides to live with some man, the man must take total responsibility for the financial care of that family. Suppose the man makes minimum wage (or less) and trys but can't support the family. He will be forced to leave the home so that the children can be fed. This has been a major problem for the whole welfare system. It breaks up the home, causes more expenses to the Welfare Department and severely hurts children. But leave it to George to make more expense for the Welfare Department and hurt families. I mean that man couldn't be more harmful to the Welfare Department and to people if he tried. He is bad, all the way through. Thank you Assemblyman Chaney for standing up for your community and behalf of all the poor families that need a spokesman in the assembly.
