LOST BIT OF HISTORY

A review of Bill Pickett: First Black Rodeo Star by Sibyl Hancock, published by Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, N.Y., 61 pages—$1.05.

This beautiful book for children is part of a "Let Me Read" series for which teacher's guides are available.

Bill Pickett is a fascinating story of a most attractive black man who invented the rodeo art of bulldogging. Bulldogging involves grappling with a steer by his horns and tugging him in this fashion to the ground.

The large appeal of this intriguing children's book rests in its placing a lost bit of precious history back into the minds of young people... and adults as well... where it belongs.

Bill Pickett was a friend, co-worker and hero to Will Rogers. He reveals, in his own life story, the awkward myths of America and especially of America's Old Wild West where blacks and black cowboys especially played heroically important and pioneering roles.

Bill's being greeted by the King and Queens of England suggests even further how blacks as a whole have been persons without honor (or even mention) at home but were often "not without honor" abroad.

For all proud people, black and white, who want reality to return to... or to enter... our nation's life, this children's book is recommended. Well written and illustrated.

Prayer Poem

The well-known hymn, "Peace, Perfect Peace" was written by E.H. Bickersteth in 1975 and speaks of our fulfillment in God's life.

Peace, perfect peace, in this dark world of sin?

The blood of Jesus whispers peace within.

Peace, perfect peace, by thronging duties pressed?

To do the will of Jesus, this is rest.

It is enough: earth's struggle soon shall cease,

And Jesus call us to heaven's perfect peace.

Support your pastor and your church. Are you tithing to your church. If not, you are missing out on the pathway toward God's peace.
