

WICI

Dear Communicator:

You are invited to join other professional communicators at the first chapter meeting of Women in Communications (WICI). A special program has been planned to introduce you to this outstanding national organization for women in the various communications fields.

Las Vegas is definitely ripe for an organization of WICI's stature.

Several active members from Los Angeles will attend this meeting to describe their experience with WICI, answer your questions and brainstorm about the new Las Vegas chapter.

RITA ROONER, keynote speaker, has written articles for America's most popular publications, notably Reader's Digest, McCall's and Good Housekeeping, as well as other leading women's magazines. She is president of the country's largest WICI chapter in Greater Los Angeles. Ms. Rooney will share some of the secrets of her professional success and other freelancing tips to Las Vegas writers.

CAROLYN JOHNSON, WICI national board member, is Region Vice President. As a communications professor at California State University, Fullerton, she teaches undergraduate and graduate level writing.

Please take this opportunity to learn about Women in Communications, Inc. and the benefits it offers its members.

For a few cents a day, you can answer the phone without leaving the fun.

The family room was the big reason we chose this house. We love it.

So why leave the gang every time the phone rings?

I don't anymore. Not since we had an extension phone put in here.

Now a call doesn't disrupt our fun. And because it only costs a few cents a day, the extension phone doesn't disrupt our budget.

Wherever you spend a lot of your time, you need an extension phone. Call your Centel business office to order the phones you need. Why run all over the house?
