

CCCC Journalism Class

Las Vegas newswoman Andrea Boggs will be teaching a course at the Clark County Community College (CCCC) on the fundamentals of radio and television news.

The class will meet Saturdays from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. from March 4 to May 13.

According to Boggs, the course will provide a foundation for those interested in a career in broadcast journalism as well as those wanting to learn more about radio and television news.

Besides exploring the news reporting techniques which the electronic journalist employs, Boggs will also discuss interview skills and on air performance.

Boggs, a graduate of Fresno State College with a degree in journalism, currently anchors the 6 and 11 p.m. news show on KORK-TV channel 3. A professional journalist for the past 12 years, she was named "TV Woman of the Year" by local television columnist Jim Seagrave.

Levi Strauss Hiring Sessions

State Industrial Director Bil Bender and Southern Nevada Economic Development Council Coordinator Otis Harris will be attending Levi Strauss hiring sessions beginning this week, Economic Development Director Robert Goodman said today.

Goodman said the two men will evaluate the hiring sessions to get a better feel for the skills desired by such employers as Levi Strauss and the skills Southern Nevadans have.

"The Department of Economic Development is assisting several clients considering Southern Nevada for distribution", Goodman said. "By working closely with new companies such as Levi we can better anticipate the needs of other business."

The hiring sessions began Tuesday, February 7 at 10:00 a.m. at the Convention Center. Nineteen different job categories will be filled and the facility will employ about three hundred when at full strength, Levi officials have said.

Levi Strauss representatives have worked closely with Economic Development since contacting the department in June, 1975. The state agency provided the clothing company with extensive studies on transportation and taxation, as well as a site selection survey for all of Clark County.
