THE GIRL--Petite, young Ren Woods, who gained fame as 'Dorothy' in the hit stage musical, "The Wiz" and in the award-winning tv mini-series, "Roots," reaches another plateau as 'Sybil' in the taut American International release, "Youngblood."

Petite, young Ren Woods, who gained fame as "Dorothy" in the stage musical, "The Wiz," reaches another plateau as Sybil in the new American International Pictures' release, "Youngblood," coming to theatre screens this spring.

As Sybil, a young girl whose first tender love feelings are complicated by dope addiction, Ren adds another facet to a fast-rising dramatic acting career which has already seen her featured in the award-winning mini-series, "Roots" on television and the hit comedy film "Car Wash."

Ms. Woods first began to make a name for herself singing at age 9 in Portland, Oregon, where she grew up and, "Sunday's Child," the trio she formed as sub-teenager, made its national television debut on NBC-TV's "Soul Special."

"Youngblood" stars Lawrence-Hilton Jacobs and introduces Bryan O'dell in the title role.

The film features an original musical score composed and performed by the rock group, WAR.

"Youngblood" was directed by Noel Nosseck, and produced by Nick Grillo and Alan Riche, and written by Paul Carter Harrison. Hal DeWindt was associate producer.
