AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

Prep Hockey

What appears to be the Stanley Cup finals is really prep hockey mania and you can catch all the action when "Prep Championships: Minnesota Boys' Hockey" airs on Sunday, April 30 at 1:30 p.m. on TV-10.

It all started thirty-three years ago in a small St. Paul auditorium when a total of 8,000 spectators watched the entire tournament. Last year's event broke the all-time attendance mark when 94,286 attended -- 17,000 plus at the finals alone.

When it comes to speed, agility and strategy, the Minnesota prep hockey play-offs rank alongside the big leagues for gutsy competition and fast-breaking action. Over 140 schools enter the single eliminations tourney and the two that are left on finals night can truly boast the premiere athletes of the state.

The level of play is outstanding, as attested to by the several college scouts who attend each year's event. The intensity of the game is no less professional, with adroit puckhandling, solid body checking and accurate passing getting the emphasis.

By the magnetic drawing power of Minnesota prep hockey is the sprit of the young men on the ice. Says Lou Nanne, color commentator for the last several tournaments and newly-named head coach of the NHL Minnesota North Stars, "The kids exude enthusiasm, which is highly contagious. It is their emotions which really give the tournament its atmosphere."
