

The Time of the Triangle

Three of the brightest stars in the summer sky, each part of a different constellation, form the brilliant "summer triangle" which is the basis for exploring the stars and constellations of summer in the Clark County Community College (CCCC) Planetarium production "The Time of the Triangle."

Presented every Tuesday at 8 p.m. and Wednesday at 12:15 p.m., this production will be shown from Tuesday, May 30 to Wednesday, July 26.

In ancient times, men were not attempting to fit figures to the stars when they created their constellations. Rather they were reminded of some legend or myth by a particular group of stars and named that region of the sky for the heros and divinities of those legends.

With the arrival of summer, our awareness of the night sky increases as well as our curiosity about constellations. "The Time of the Triangle" helps us to gain a better understanding of these constellations and summer stars.

Produced and directed locally by Planetarium Director Dr. Dale Etheridge, admission to this show is free. However Etheridge recommends that those interested in attending this show should call the CCCC planetarium at 643-6060, extension 457 for reservations due to the popularity of the planetarium shows.

Old Friends - New Friends

"Old Friends . . . New Friends," Fred Rogers' new weekly half-hour television series about how people of various ages live and grow with one another -- premieres Saturday, June 3 at 8:00 p.m. on Channel 10.

The premiere of "Old Friends . . . New Friends" features Hoagy Carmichael, who composed all-time popular songs such as "Stardust" and "Georgia on My Mind," and Carmichael's son, Goagy B., whose own life led him to become one of the world's best fishing-rod makers. This first program seeks to show what it is like to be the child of a famous, successful, career-oriented father, a complex, emotional fact of life which many of today's children and parents must try to understand.

In subsequent broadcasts, the series includes visits with the famous and the not-so-famous, including William Wasson, a priest from the United States who over the past 25 years has adopted 4,000 orphaned Mexican children; actress Helen Hayes; and Millie Jewett, a Nantucket coastguard helper. Also appearing will be established comedian Milton Berle and new comedian, Joe Restivo; barber Nick Failla; Lesley Frost Ballantine, the late Robert Frost's eldest daughter; William Sloan Coffin, Jr., pastor of Riverside Church, and blues singer John Jackson.

"Old . . . New Friends" came about because of a concern for the growing isolation of older persons in society, according to Rogers. "We are going to present people who know who they are and can communicate their self-worth and their activities and accomplishments to others. Perhaps the most important matter in any person's life -- at any age -- is having a satisfying relationship with caring and trusted friends."

NBUF Conference

Ambassador Andrew Young, Dr. Carlton Goodlet, Minister Abdul Haleem Farrakhan and Lerone Bennett will be the keynote speakers for the second annual conference of the National Black United Fund in Atlanta, Georgia at the Colony Square Hotel from June 28 - July 1.

With the theme: "Public Policy and the Black Masses: Our Mutual Responsibility," the four-day working session is expected to attract some 3,000 participants from across the country.

"These speakers represent a cross section of the Black community," said Walter Bremond, executive director of the association. "We will be analysing various methods to deal with some of the crucial problems facing our communities."

According to Gregory Franks and Lnder Anderson, the conference coordinators, the chairpersons are Mayard Jackson, Mayor of Atlanta, State Senator Julian Bond, Coretta Scott King, David Franklin and Jesse Hill.

A number of workshops has been planned dealing with economic, politics, social development and culture. The gathering will include politicians educators, entertainers and businessmen.

A major highlight of the conference will be a concert at the Atlanta Civic Center sponsored by Columbia Records. Guests to the main banquet will be entertained by such notable as Cicely Tyson and Roberta Flack. Quincy Jones, Edward Eckstine, Dr. Donald Byrd and Labaron Taylor will serve as host to many of the main sessions.

According to Dr. Carlton Goodlet, national board president of the organization, the National Black United Fund is a mechanism by which the Black community can determine its own priorities and then fund organizations and agencies working on those priorities.
