hang-up by suburbia living hot shots who in many cases later on get jobs with the Department of Energy, the fast growing highest paying agency in the U. S. government.

Trying to obtain a permit to build a nuclear plant in New York, from the New York State Board on Electric Generating Siting and Environment, can easily take three years and 30,000 pages of testimony. Such a fuel saving nuclear plant now takes seven years to build, rather than the original estimated 70 months.

These delays are costly to the citizens who can least afford the loss. Senators should cut short their natural tendency to debate and start cutting the red tape for nuclear power plant construction. On stage at the Commonwealth Club of California, Dr. Chauncey Starr, founding president of the Electric Power Research Institute, an organization representing companies responsible for coming up with low cost energy, calls the shots correctly.

"Those of us who share the responsibility for actually delivering energy to the public do not have a crystal ball which permits us to lay out a simple, single course. We do recognize all the uncertainties and for this reason most of us believe that the nation should follow a multiplicity of energy supply options." Dr. Starr is a guiding light.

It's believed to be bad luck to light three cigarettes from one match.

The most avoidable cause of blindness is probably the eye injury. If safety eyewear is used and proper precautions taken in schools and industry, some 90 percent of eye injuries need not occur.

The most effective way to get a speck out of the eye is to lift the upper lid over the lower and let tears wash the eye clean. For tips on first aid in eye emergencies, write to your state Prevention of Blindness Society, or the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, 79 Madison Avenue, N.Y., N.Y. 10016. This is the Society's 70th year of saving sight.

AMERICA'S VALUES

"We have seen in this nation over the past fifteen years a reaffirmation of the dignity and worth of the individual and his or her right to equal opportunity; a resurgence of distrust of large, impersonal institutions; and a fresh appreciation of the importance of our surroundings.

In spite of all we hear nowadays about this country going to hell in a hand-basket, the values reflected in this new American renaissance appear to me suspiciously old-fashioned—and are in fact part and parcel of the very principles upon which this country was founded."
—Jerry McAfee, chairman, Gulf Oil Corporation.

New Professor

The Rev. Fred Tiffany, Protestant minister for the Center for United Campus Ministry, has been appointed assistant professor of religion at the Earlham College School of Religion in Richmond, Ind.

For the past three years, Tiffany has been affiliated with The Center as well as teaching courses in history and religion at University of Nevada, Las Vegas and Clark County Community College.

The Center, located next to the UNLV campus, is an ecumenical facility supported by the Catholic, Protestant and Jewish communities, offering classes, counseling, workshops and recreation for university students and the Las Vegas community at large.

Tiffany has served as vice president of the Clark County Ministerial Association, as a director of the community Food Bank and as a member of the executive committee of the Nevada Conference of Churches.

In addition, he is a member of the Nevada Huger Task Force and the Sagebrush Alliance. He was a participant of last year's Nevada Women's Conference as well as several public forums funded by Nevada Humanities Committee.

Tiffany's wife, Linda, has been actively involved in community affairs, including the 1977 UNICEF Day Drive, United Methodist Women, American Association of University Women, Nevadans for ERA, the Religious Coalition for ERA and the Las Vegas Food Co-op.

The clergyman received his Ph.D. recently from Claremont Graduate School and looks forward to working with students preparing for church vocations.
